Kellogg Peace Fruits.
Wonderful Virginia.
The Happiest Human.
No Machine Made Life.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MIDDLEBURG, Va., Nov. 29. CHINA says Russians on her Manchurian possessions seizing railroads, killing Chinese, setting fire to their homes, etc., is a defiance of the Kellogg Peace Pact.

BRITAIN and America will talk that over and see what can be done about it.

Henderson, foreign minister in Britain's Labor cabinet, says Japan will take part in the discussion. Russia asks no one's advice and the only thing that could be done about it, would be to fight Russia.

IT would be interesting if the first fruits of the Kellogg Peace Pact should be the start of another war. If that war came, Japan, highly intelligent, would send a few "observers" as in the big war, and do nothing else. Britain would be too busy with other things and too "fed up" for any more fighting.

Uncle Sam would be told, "After all, Kellogg is your man. It is your peace pact. Have the common decency to attend to this matter."

THIS is written at Middleburg, Virginia, where you find the finest hunting country with many packs of hounds, the best horses and the best girls' school in the land. Several hundred turned out for the Thanksgiving fox hunts, galloping over stone walls and fences.

GEN. WILLIAM C. MITCHELL was among them. He ought to be helping this government to build up the world's greatest air fleet, for he was, and is, our best flying officer. His trouble was that he told the truth, something that men higher in office do not like, when it criticizes them.

THE happiest fox hunter in Virginia yesterday was not one of the men in red coats and top hats, or any woman or girl groomed within an inch of her life. It was a fifteen-year-old colored boy riding a three-year-old colt that had never hunted before, and slamming that young animal over every fence as he came to it. Sometimes the horse and boy went down. Sometimes a rail broke, or stones rolled off.

ALWAYS the young rider went on, smiling beatifically. He was fox hunting. Gen. Mitchell told him:

"Boy, that's going to be one of the best jumpers in the country."

Then that happiest boy in Virginia was the happiest boy in the world. A great deal happier than Rockefeller, King George and Henry Ford, all rolled into one. There is no substitute for youth, none for a good horse.

E. E. FREE, able engineer, says 1950 will see electric houses, lighted with artificial sunlight, weather arranged as prescribed by the doctor, like a baby's modified milk, no windows, soundproof and electrically ventilated. The soundproof suggestion is welcome, and the rest NOT.

MEN are, physically speaking, animals. They want the sun shining irregularly, the air blowing through. They want to come in and go out as they did in the cave days, and do not want the inside made like the outside.

Science tells us one day we shall eat all the food we need condensed into a few small pills. We say, "No; give us good artistic cooking, let us cultivate the globe and enjoy all its products." Men, when emancipated from industrial slavery by machinery and intelligence, will demand a real life, real freedom. Not a machine-made imitation of life.

We may change to food of pills and homes without windows in a million years, but let us hope not.

THERE are only a few thousand airplanes in America. On Wednesday two of them struck and damaged houses, with serious danger to many lives, in addition to killing one pilot. One house was set on fire. What will happen when millions of planes are roaring above? Now is the time to regulate flying, the rights and limitations of those that use the air paths.

BUSINESS MEN that know what it means to take an inventory of a good sized store, will shudder when they hear that Dr. Shapley, of Harvard, has a plan for taking an inventory of the universe, or "an index" as he calls it. Man is very far down in that inventory, about as important as a shoe string in a wholesale dry goods store.

In the cosmos, everything is to be listed in its place from electrons to "super-galaxies," the difference between a super-galaxy and an electron, of which millions might revolve, unperceived around their nucleus, in the corner of your eyes, is quite a difference.

CONSIDER that the molecules in a pint of water, placed side by side, touching, would go around the earth two hundred million times, that our sun is a million times as big as the earth, that there exist other suns, one million times as big as ours, and you can imagine

PARKING BAN DOWNTOWN URGED

Public Safety Director Presents Traffic Plan Gained in Extended Tour

Public Safety Director James M. Clark today outlined a plan for elimination of the downtown traffic and parking menace as the result of a personal investigation made recently into traffic problems in several cities of the west and Middle West.

While on his more or less extensive tour, Director Clark visited Chicago, Denver and Omaha and discovered these cities were suffering from traffic ailments similar to those found in Pittsburgh.

WOULD BAN PARKING

Elimination of all parking in the downtown area was advocated by the director. If his recommendations are made into a law by Council, Clark said, he believed a panacea for the existing evil will have been found.

Clark also paid his respects to those persons who park downtown during busy periods and after getting tags from an officer, have "some politician" fix them up.

"Omaha, Denver and Chicago are suffering badly from traffic jams and their problems are very much similar to those in Pittsburgh," the director said.

"In Chicago the police are attempting to eliminate downtown parking altogether at any time. Similar action in Pittsburgh is the only remedy for our problem. The quicker it is done the better. We have a worse problem than these other cities because our streets are much narrower."

TOW IN PARKED CARS

The Director also believes that instead of tagging parked cars in restricted areas at present, action like that of Police Commissioner Grover Whalen, of New York City, should be taken by towing the machines to garages.

"As it is now," he said, "car owners, especially those who attend the theaters at night, are willing to be tagged, pay their dollar and enjoy the use of the street for their own personal convenience. Later they get the tags 'fixed up' through some politician. Tags mean little to them."

Kellogg, Sailing, Hopes for Peace

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Nov. 29. (AP.)—Prior to sailing on the Levithan today for New York, Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state, said:

"I have great hopes of world peace and for the five-power naval conference to be held in London.

"Such things, however, can not be accomplished in a hurry; they must evolve gradually."

POLA NEGRI SUES FOR DIVORCE

Film Beauty's Second Marital Venture Wrecked; Opera Singer to Marry Prince

International News Service.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—Pola Negri, exotic beauty of the screen, today filed suit for divorce from her husband, Prince Mdivani.

The film star asked a decree under her real name, Appoline Chalupec.

Miss Negri based her application on the grounds of incompatibility.

Filing of the divorce action had been expected for some time, as the impetuous Polish actress and her husband, scion of a family from the country of George, once a Russian province, have been separated for a considerable period.

"Being a princess is not so much fun as I thought it would be," said Pola Negri to International News Service a few hours after she had filed the action.

"Perhaps the trouble is that Serge thinks the movies mean too much to me," she continued.

"After all, there is nothing like liberty, but I would rather be forced to be a film slave than any other kind."

OPERA SINGER WAITS

Some time ago Mary McCormic, famous opera singer and protegee of Mary Garden, announced that she would be married to the prince as soon as he had been divorced from Miss Negri. At the time, Miss McCormic jokingly told International News Service she would force the prince to change his name to "McDivans" in order

Another of Wales' Rumor Brides Weds

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(INS.)—Another beautiful English society girl often mentioned as an eligible bride for the Prince of Wales was married today. Lady Anne Cavendish, youngest daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, became the bride of Henry Hunloke, son of Maj. Sir Philip Hunloke, captain of the King's yacht Britannia.

Gas Overcomes 8 on Pittsburgh Bus in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—Overcome by carbon monoxide gas, seven passengers and the driven of a Detroit-to-Pittsburgh Colonial Stage Line bus were rushed to a hospital here today.

Doctors said they would recover.

Those overcome were H. E. Manion, 51, Chicago; Louise Wilson, Philadelphia; Pedro Muner, Detroit; Walter Moebus, 26, Detroit; William Weller, 26, Cumberland, Md.; F. S. Moltor, Youngstown, driver of the bus; Miss Teynie Hanttula, 23, Amasa, Mich., and William Anderson, of Detroit. Moebus was en route to Pittsburgh to seek work.

KEPT MOTOR RUNNING

Needing repairs to the windshield, the driver guided the bus to the passenger station of another line, and kept the motor idling while the repairs were being made, so that the bus would be kept warm by heat from the exhaust.

Workmen at the repair station noticed the passengers slumped over in their seats and first thought they were asleep, but investigation showed most of them unconscious.

EXHAUST BLAMED

The repairmen immediately carried the overcome passengers to fresh air outside the bus and summoned firemen and ambulances.

Firemen said the poison gas came from the bus' exhaust.

TONDORF, QUAKE EXPERT, DIES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—Father Francis A. Tondorf, director of the Georgetown University Seismological Observatory, and widely known as a student of earth disturbances, died here today.

His death came unexpectedly. He appeared at a dinner with other priests and college officials last night. This morning associates found him dead in bed. He had apparently succumbed to a heart attack.

Father Tondort was one of the foremost seismologists of the world. One of his most notable pieces of work was placing of the Japanese earthquake of 1923 many hours before the world at large heard about this major catastrophe.

Melville, Shoe Head, Gets $500,000 Policy

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(INS.)—Frank Melville, Jr., president of the Melville Shoe Corporation, who lacks but one year of having lived his allotted three score and ten, is such a good risk that he is taking out $500,000 worth of insurance. Melville, 6 feet 1 inch in height, weighing 180 pounds and minus any signs of a waistline, ascribes his remarkable condition to cow punching in Wyoming in his younger days.

Fayette Princess' Aged Mother Hurt

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 29.—(AP.)—Mrs. Lenora Niccolls, mother of the Princess of Thurn and Taxis, was in the Uniontown Hospital today, suffering a fractured hip, while the princess was occupying an adjoining room so that she might be near her mother. Mrs. Niccolls, who is more than 80 years old, was injured in a fall downstairs at her home.

RACKETEER'S TRIAL SET FOR DECEMBER 10; JONES POSTS BOND

Al Forney, a fugitive for nine months, surrendered to the law today.

The man who is reputed to have made a fortune in the Allegheny County slot machine racket walked into District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner's office today and posted $6,000 bond to face charges of maintaining gambling devices and being a common gambler.

Mr. Forney

ALFRED W. FORNEY

Forney, still the same cigar-smoking individual, who surrendered to authorities in Pittsburgh today.

DREW ASSAILS GARDNER

For accepting bail from a man who has been a fugitive for nine months Gardner was criticized by Judge James B. Drew.

"The proper place for Forney is in the County Jail," Judge Drew asserted. "It looks as if Forney had made all his arrangements before he appeared with his bond in the District Attorney's office. . . . This is most extraordinary."

Gardner replied that he had no alternative.

Forney disappeared last March when his case was called for trial. He is the same tall, heavy-set, cigar-smoking individual who served six months in jail after pleading guilty in Federal Court to violation of the prohibition law.

VISIT IS HURRIED

Forney's was a hurried visit. With his lawyer, Hiram D. Hirsh, who also is attorney for the State Public Service Commission, he drove into the private parking lot in the courtyard, moved to the district attorney's office and, after posting bond, departed in the expensive limousine in which he had arrived.

A $5,000 reward was offered by the county commissioners months ago for Forney's apprehension.

To the public at least Forney's surrender was a surprise. There have been rumors that he had returned to the city, but few expected him to give himself up and face the charges which are the outcome of a grand jury investigation of liquor and gambling conditions in the county.

When Forney disappeared last March, on the day of his trial, he left behind, with his lawyer, only an affidavit contending that he was sick in New York.

TRIAL DECEMBER 10

Apparently unconvinced, Judge James B. Drew urged the County Commissioners to post the $5,000 reward for Forney's arrest. In the last nine months most reports have had him in Canada, Florida or Cuba.

District Attorney Gardner moved speedily after Forney had posted a bond signed by William

Byrd on Airplane Dash To South Pole

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—The New York Times, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the newspapers affiliated with them in publishing reports from Com Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic expedition, today announced that Com. Byrd took off from his base, Little America, in the Antarctic at 3:29 o'clock yesterday afternoon (10:29 p. m. New York time) on a 1,600-mile flight to the South Pole and back.

Commander Byrd, who is flying with Bernt Balchen as pilot, with Harold June as radio operator and Capt. Ashley C. McKinly as photographer in the big tri-motored airplane he took to the Antarctic expects to be in direct communication throughout the flight with the New York Times radio station in New York, as well as with his base, and will report his progress as he goes. If all is well with him, he should return to his base before 24 hours have elapsed.

Planning to carry the Stars and Stripes to the bottom of the world by air as he already has carried them to the top, Commander Richard E. Byrd set out on Thanksgiving Day to fly across the South Pole just as summer approached the vast frigid Antarctic continent.

The flight recalled his own flight in May, 1926, in the tri-motored Fokker airplane, the Miss Josephine Ford, from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, across the North Pole and return, in 15 hours and 30 minutes.

He was the first to fly to the North Pole and the only one to fly across it in a heavier than air machine.

EVANS TANGLE BEFORE SPECIAL COUNCIL SESSION

RESIGNATION MAY SAVE M'ARDLE

Mayor Coalition With New Members of Council Threatens Another Mixup

Council will meet today in special session to consider Controller Henry O. Evans' resignation, submitted Wednesday.

Evans' action has created a tempest in political circles and may force Daniel Winters, elected controller, to resign immediately as councilman and assume the controllership, contrary to his apparent plans.

Winters defeated Evans in the primary for the Republican nomination for controller and in the general election. Winters as the Republican nominee again defeated Evans who had accepted an independent nomination.

CHANCE FOR M'ARDLE

Winters' term in Council would not expire for two years and political observers seemed convinced that he intended delaying his departure until the new Council reorganized next January 6.

If Winters resigned during the life of the present Council, it seemed probable that the members would choose for the vacancy P. J. McArdle who was defeated by the people for re-election.

It was predicted that McArdle would have the votes of Alderdice, Anderson, Garland, Little and Malone. McArdle's present term does not expire until next January 6 and he would have to resign to be eligible as a candidate for Council's choosing.

ACTION HELD VITAL

Mayor Charles H. Kline, who will have a vote on Winters' successor, and many of his chief supporters, including Winters, are believed to prefer a candidate other than McArdle.

If Winters would not resign until the next Council is organized, McArdle and Malone would be out of office and the administration could name Winters' successor with the votes of Mayor Kline, English, Herron and the recently elected members, Clifford B. Connelly and M. J. Muldowney.

J. Rodgers McCreery, solicitor for the Board of Public Education, which is served by the city controller, has indicated that the law requires that the controllership be filled at once.

Councilman R. J. Alderdice was undecided today whether he would vote for P. J. McArdle to replace Daniel Winters in Council January 1, in the event Winters takes over the city controllership vacated by Oliver Evans.

ALDERDICE UNDECIDED

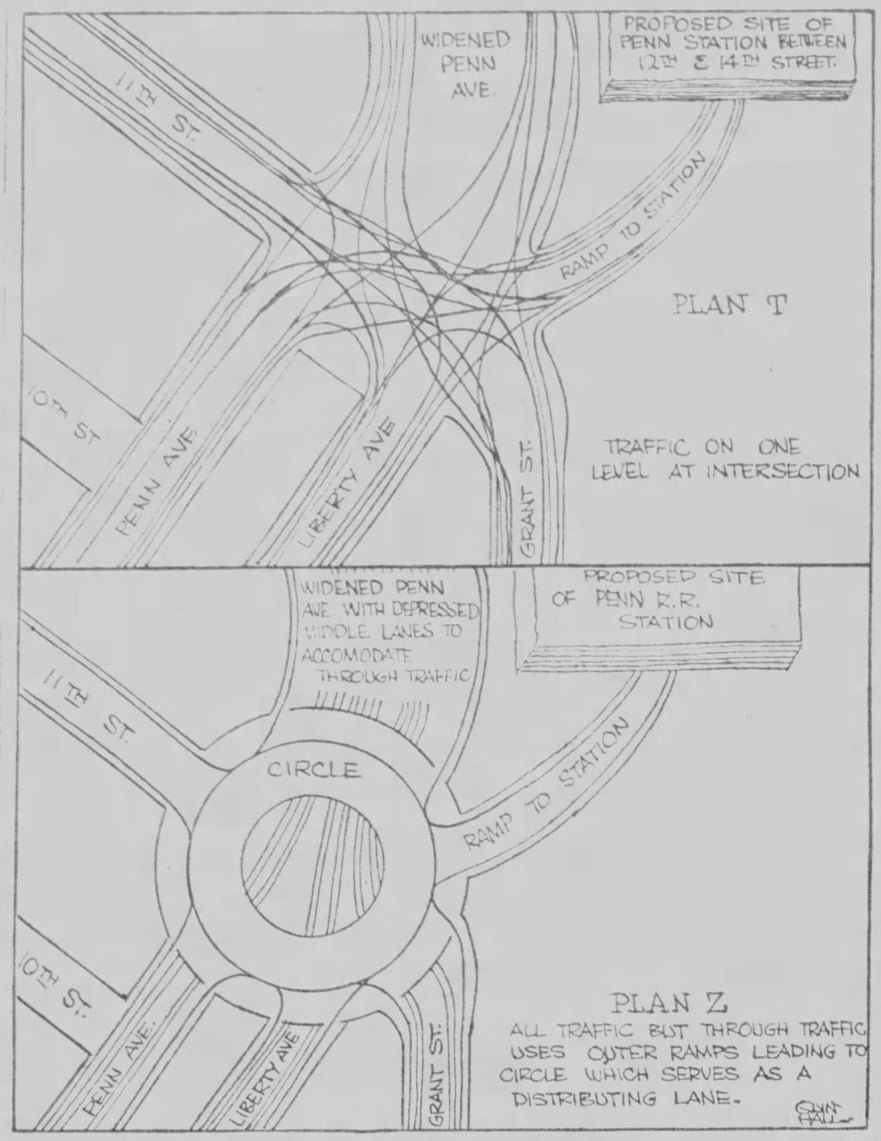
Out of town for several days, Alderdice returned today. Informed of Evans' resignation, Alderdice said: "I'm trying to find out what it's all about. I don't know whether I will vote for McArdle or not."

As one of his final acts as Controller, Evans today conferred with District Attorney S. H. Gardner relative to what he considers the criminal aspect of the $1,000,000 garbage contract controversy.

Evans gave the names of those whom he alleges were the bribers and those receiving the bribes, in what he claims was extensive padding of the costs of garbage collection on the cost plus plan.

Gardner took the matter under advisement and will confer with Assistant District Attorney Harry R. Phillips, who has charge of that phase of the office work.

LET'S NOT BE PENNY WISE—By Quin Hall



WHY should the city and the Pennsylvania Railroad spend $666,000—or even a solitary dollar—to get into traffic difficulities such as are visualized in the upper half of this cartoon? Why, even if the city were paid, instead of paying, should it accept any such futile arrangement? This is a visualization of "Plan T," minority suggestion for caring for traffic at the proposed junction of Grant street, Liberty and Penn avenues in connection with the projected Pennsylvania terminal improvements.

"PLAN Z," indicated in the lower part of the drawing, recommended by the majority of the committee which made a study of this problem, would cost more than the other, but it is obvious that its value would be all it costs. One, a worthy plan, and the other, worse than worthless, show the difference between chaos and order, between wisdom and folly. The penny wise and pound foolish proverb will be found to apply with a vengeance if the city should accept the "Plan T" maze instead of a real solution to the problem.

AL FORNEY ENDS LONG SEARCH

Jones, of 2821 Beechwood boulevard.

Gardner set December 10 for Forney's trial on the two charges which contain 16 counts.

Forney's surrender opens again the possibility that he will return to the county jail in which he has already served a six months' sentence from Federal Court.

ONE OF 167 INDICTED

He was one of 167 politicians racketeers and men-about-town who were indicted in the federal investigation which preceded Gardner's probe.

Forney pleaded guilty and promised to "tell all because my conscience is bothering me."

All but a few of the 167 preferred to stand trial and only a few were found guilty. The remainder were acquitted on a general charge of conspiracy to violate the liquor laws.

It was at their trial that the government painted its picture of ward-chairman control of the liquor concessions. In the North Side, South Side and Strip political bosses handed out illegal concessions, United States attorneys charged.

Indicted and acquitted were State Assemblymen Samuel J. Grenet and Luke Sullivan, North side Ward Chairmen John P. O'Donnell and William Herd, Police Inspector Charles Faulkner, Police Magistrate John W. Orie.

The Sun-Telegraph asked Forney's attorney where his client had spent the last nine months.

Hirsh answered that out of deference he would not supply the information. He said he was considering having Forney issue a statement.

SAYS DREW

Judge Drew's statement on Forney's admittance to bond follows:

"It is most extraordinary and without precedent for a man to be admitted to bail who has been a fugitive from justice and who has returned after a long absence. The proper place for Forney is the County Jail, where he could be found when wanted. It looks as if Forney had made all his arrangements before he appeared with his bail bond in the District Attorney's office.

"If at present I was assigned to the Criminal Courts I would cancel the bail and have Forney placed in jail as a fugitive and I would keep him there until the case against him has been disposed of.

"If he had returned while I was presiding in Criminal Court that is the method I would have pursued. This is no prejudgment of the merits of Forney's case, but it would be the usual treatment meted out to a fugitive from justice."

SAYS GARDNER

Gardner in reply declared:

"It is my opinion that if Judge Drew's course were followed and Forney's bail canceled, Forney would be immediately released on a habeas corpus proceedings by another court. As District Attorney, my only course was to follow the law, which says that a misdemeanor is a bailable offense. I had no alternative but to accept the bail when it was offered, and which I found to be adequate. The law makes no difference between a fugitive who has jumped a bail bond and any other offenders.

"Forney's original $5,000 bail was forfeited and collected and the District Attorney's case in that matter concerns the bondsman, and not Forney."

CHINESE PEACE NEGOTIATIONS MUDDLED

Nanking Government Denies Manchuria Seeks Peace In Separate Settlement

By Associated Press.

The Russo-Chinese controversy over the Chinese Eastern Railway for the present has shifted from warlike activities in Manchuria to a verbal bombardment between Moscow and Nanking as to the exact status of negotiations looking toward a settlement.

Out of the intense confusion of denials, counter-denials, charges and counter-charges, the following facts emerged:

Nanking emphatically denied Manchuria was negotiating independently for a settlement with the Soviet government.

The Nationalist foreign office insisted it had sent a note to Moscow containing proposals for a Chino-Russian joint commission to investigate border conditions and for withdrawal of troops by both sides to at least 30 miles from the frontier.

In event of rejection "the Nationalist government will be prepared to meet Soviet moves accordingly."

INTERVENTION PLEA SEEN

Moscow insisted negotiations with Mukden were going forward and charged that Nanking, to thwart these, were seeking intervention by the powers.

Izvestia, official Soviet organ, declared the "Imperialists" were seeking to intervene in order to "stretch out an arm to the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Meanwhile Washington, which has been in communication with other powers to determine if anything could be done, awaited the outcome of the Nanking note to Moscow.

NO APPEAL TO LEAGUE

The attitude of the State Department, as interpreted in Washington, appeared to be that China and Russia should be given every opportunity to settle the differences between them before the other powers take action.

Thus far the League of Nations has received no official appeal from the Nationalist government to take a hand in the controversy.

The British North China Daily News at Shanghai quoted Russian Agency reports that negotiations between Moscow and Mukden had begun at Harbin "on the express authority of both Nanking and Mukden authorities."

The railway town of Bachatu, 250 miles from the border, was again reported bombarded by Soviet planes, but no other fighting seems to have taken place for the past few days.

FOKKER BLAMES CRASH ON MAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—Anthony H. G. Fokker, designer of the giant 32-passenger airplane which crashed at Roosevelt Field Wednesday, injuring two persons attributes the accident to failure of the human element in aviation.

"There was no necessity of taking the craft up without having everything in good working order," Mr. Fokker said.

"The failure of the second engine on the same side as the one which was left idle at the takeoff resulted in loss of control before the plane had attained sufficient altitude and speed. There is no doubt that this type plane can be brought to a safe landing regardless of the failure of one or two engines if flying under normal conditions and at safe altitude.

"Such accidents as this prove that no matter how safe and airworthy a plane may be, it can be wrecked at any time by failure of the human element."

District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards, of Nassau County, issued orders to Capt. Harold R. King, head of the county detective bureau, to subpena all persons who witnessed the crash. The district attorney said that he wanted to determine the responsibility for the crash which ruined two houses. The subpenas are returnable before the district attorney on Tuesday.

that her children might bear an appelation that had an Irish ring. Miss McCormic was born in Belleville, Ark. Her present residence is Paris.

With great pomp and ceremony rivaling the marriages of Hollywood studio lots, Miss Negri was married to Prince Mdvani at the Chateau de Seraincourt, May 17, 1927.

POLA MARRIED TWICE

This was Miss Negri's second venture into matrimony. Her first husband was Baron Popper, a Polish army officer, from whom she was divorced before she came to America as a movie discovery of Ernest Lubitsch, the motion picture director.

During her years of success in Hollywood, Miss Negri was variously reported engaged to many famous screen actors, including Charles Chaplin and Rudolph Valentino. Miss Negri's pilgrimage from Hollywood to New York to be present at Valentino's funeral, when she declared that death had robbed her of the "world's greatest lover" will long remain a saga of moviedom.

MAKING EUROPEAN FILMS

Miss Negri has spent the greater part of the last two years in Europe, negotiating with British and French motion picture producing concerns to make films. She recently told interviewers here she was tired of Hollywood, and that she found in European studios a more sympathetic reaction to her exotic temperament.

The actress' husband is a brother of Prince George Mdivani, who was married to Mae Murray, also well known on the screen. Miss Murray's marriage to the Georgian nobleman started the movie people's ascension into the realm of nobility. It was not long after this that Poli married her prince and Gloria Swanson became the Marquise de la Falaise de la Coudraye.

SIX BILLIONS PLEDGED TO AID BOOM

Projects to Provide Work For Millions Scheduled in Hoover Business Drive

By M. L. RAMSAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Public and private construction and betterment programs which will cost $6,000,000,000 or more and give employment to millions of men have grown out of President Hoover's plans for business stabilization, reports from all parts of the country to the White House indicated today.

The sum represents the definite plans for expenditure of the federal, state and municipal governments, railroads and public utilities. No estimates have yet been received from private industries. The known program, however, is regarded as assurance of renewed orders for steel, lumber and other materials, and a general strengthening of allied industries.

EMPLOYMENT ASSURED

Outstanding projects approximated this vast sum as wires and mails poured in reports of a quick spread of the business progress movement's to all parts of the country and to smaller business units.

The $6,000,000,000 total embraces only some of the biggest programs of construction, expansion and maintenance, of such character that they have already been framed and reported directly to the White House.

It represents the known, not the complete, projects of Federal, state and local governments, railroads, electric, gas and traction utilities, and telephone interests. No detailed reports have been made by other major industries, although announcements by individual companies have made it plan they will account for a huge outlay.

Administration officials regarded the known program, as it stands, as assuring continued work for millions of men and a steady stream of orders for steel, lumber and other materials, manufactured equipment and supplies, that will go far toward keeping industry on an even keel.

Meanwhile, a message on its way to the President, carried tidings of a $100,000,000 improvement and expansion program for the industrial empire of Northern Ohio. This program grew out of a meeting of 200 civic and business leaders at Cleveland and a check of industries in many cities and counties of the region.

BUSINESS NOT AFFECTED

Evidence that business was little affected by the stock market crash up to the end of last month and in at least some instances was recording new gains, was given in trade surveys made public by the Federal Reserve Board.

Big gains in chain store sales, compared with last year, were shown in the board's indexes.

To co-ordinate all business action taken and project and promote increasing ability, Mr. Hoover has started machinery to create a national council for the stabilization and progress of industry and commerce.

President Hoover will address a meeting of scores of business leaders here next Thursday to discuss formation of the council.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

Hundreds of motorists skidded from icy highways during the night and a number of automobile riders were injured. An absence of fatal crashes was attributed to the care of drivers who heeded advance warning of dangerous road conditions.

James E. Lewis, Jr., 22, of 5611 Aylesboro avenue, son of the president of the Harbison-Walker Refractories Company, was taken to Homeopathic Hospital early today after the automobile he was driving skidded on the ice and crashed into a pole at Fifth and Aiken avenues, then burst into flames. He was injured about the left leg and face.

FIRE ROUTS FAMILY

Fire, starting while a frozen water pipe was being thawed, damaged the home of Thomas Queen, a Negro, at 46 Audley street, to the amount of $2,500 early today.

Queen's wife and 16-year-old daughter were driven to the street in their night clothing when smoke filled the house.

Aluminum Company To Spend 50 Million

THIRSTY HORDE SEES BEER GO

High test beer—150 barrels of it—brought into the Manchester siding of the B. R. & P. Railroad for Thanksgiving distribution, attracted scores of thirsty brew lovers.

Prohibition agents, ordered to destroy the shipment, were handicapped in their efforts to carry out the order and yet prevent the thirsty ones from walking off with a barrel or so. Numerous men with buckets were chased before the beer was poured into sewers.

It was the first large seizure to be made in some time, and word of the find spread rapidly. Enforcement officers are investigating to determine who shipped it in, and to whom it was sent.

The couple met three years ago while the bride-to-be was a student at the University of Arizona here and El Kordi was majoring in a course of agriculture. Miss Maynard and El Kordi came here to study five years ago. They will sail from New York on December 6 for Cairo, their future home.

$40,000 BET ON TURN OF CARD

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—"Oh, I bet him $40,000—on the turn of a card."

Nonchalantly, as casually as if he were discussing the weather, Nathan L. (Nigger Nate) Raymond, Pacific Coast "speculator," gave this testimony today at the trial of Smiling George McManus for the murder of Arnold Rothstein, Broadway's "big shot" gambler.

Raymond bet the $40,000 with Rothstein, he said. It was during a "no limit" game at the apartment of Jimmy Meehan in West Fifty-fourth street on September 18, 1928, less than two months before Rothstein was shot. It is the state's contention that this game caused a gambler's feud that led to the killing.

"How much did you win or lose in this game?" asked Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora.

"I lost $19,000 in cash and won $219,000 in paper," replied Raymond.

Previous witnesses—gamblers at the game—testified that Rothstein pocketed nearly all the cash in sight and for his losses handed out "I O U's." Rothstein lost about "300 grand," or $300,000. McManus lost about $30,000, most of it cash.

After Raymond admitted he won $219,000 in paper from Rothstein, he was asked if he tried to collect. He said he "saw" Rothstein several times thereafter, but did not collect.

"I never got a quarter," Raymond said, curtly.

The reason he trusted Rothstein was that he "understood" Rothstein was "good" for the money.

"I was a stranger in the game," the witness said. "I took it for granted he would pay the next day."

Raymond admitted he was stopping at the Park Central Hotel the night Rothstein was shot — allegedly in McManus' room, No. 349. But Raymond said his room number was 763, on the seventh floor, where he was stopping with his wife. He emphatically declared he never saw McManus in the Park Central.

2 GIRL FLIERS MISS RECORD

METROPOLITAN AIRPORT, LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—(INS.)—Ending their fifth attempt to lower the world's refueling endurance flight record, Bobby Trout, of Los Angeles, and Elinor Smith, of New York, brought their Sunbeam biplane to earth here at 3:45 a. m. today after having been aloft continuously for 42 hours and 5 minutes.

The girl fliers' brave effort to better the mark of 420 hours and 21 minutes, set up by Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brine in St. Louis, ended in failure because of a dwindling fuel supply that could not be replenished. Their regular refueling ship had met with accident and it was impossible to establish contact with the substitute "nurse" plane on account of bumpy air.

Despite failure to attain their self-set goal of 500 hours of continuous flying, the young airwomen had set up two new records in their adventure. Their time in the air represented the world's refuelling mark for women and the world's sustained flight record for women, which formerly was 27 hours, established by Miss Smith herself over Roosevelt Field, New York.

Undaunted by the misfortune which dogged them, both girls emerged from the cockpit of their craft smiling to a great crowd which had gathered at the airport, despite the early morning hour. They disdained assistance of field mechanics who sought to help them out of their plane and fairly jumped to the ground.

Their long ordeal in the air seemed to leave little trace of fatigue on their pretty faces. A few minutes after their perfect landing they announced their intention of starting another record attempt Saturday morning.

'Paradise Lost' He Reads, Kills Self

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—All Gustav Rydberg owned was a copy of Milton's "Paradise Lost." He opened it in his little hotel room yesterday and read:

"Nor love thy life, nor hate; but what thou livest live well; how long or short permit to heaven."

Then with a knife, he killed himself.

VOTE BODY ASKS FOURTH PAY

The election recount board, appointed October 1 last to tally votes in 84 ballot boxes, following the September primaries, today presented a payroll of $3,600 to the County Commissioners for approval. The payroll is the fourth since the board was organized and provides for salaries for work done during the past two weeks.

In a report accompanying the payroll, the board recommended that 11 clerks who have been drawing a $10 per day salary be dispensed with. If the Commissioners take such action, it was said, the present board personnel will be cut almost in half.

The job of recounting the ballots is far from complete, according to officials, and will continue till about Christmas.

A $15,000 appropriation was made to pay salaries and expenses when the board was organized.

Barbers Unqualified For Jury Job—Judge

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 29.—(AP.)—Supreme Court Justice Frank T Lloyd is opposed to barbers serving as jurors. Supervising drawing of panels, he remarked that barbers are employed in gossip exchanges, and rather than refuse to inform a patron of the doings of a jury, a barber would be inclined to tell all he knew.

Debt of Antony To Caesar 'Paid' With Eraser

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—Along about the ides of March, 44 B. C., Marc Antony owed Julius Caesar $1,569,435, which was a lot of money in those days.

The Chicago Civic Theater, devoted to Shakespeare, has found out about it from some old records. The point is that Marc owed the money on the ides of March, but that about the first of April he was clear on the books. The insinuation is put forward that immediately after Caesar became deceased—via Brutus—Mr. Antony took an eraser and obliterated the indebtedness.

Of course, Antony made a pretty good talk in behalf of the late Mr. Caesar—"the evil that men do lives after them; the good is oft interred with their bones"—but it was no more than Caesar had a right to expect for $1,569,435.

One Divorce to Four Marriages In Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—One out of every four Chicago weddings wind up in the divorce courts.

This according to Thomas O. Wallace, clerk of the Circuit Court, in his annual report.

During the last year there were 3,158 divorces granted of which number 95.9 per cent were uncontested 66.6 per cent of the couples had no children; the average length of marriage was 8.9 years and the most popular grounds for action were desertion, cruelty and drunkenness.

JAPAN OPPOSES INTERVENTION

TOKYO, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—The vernacular papers here today assert the Japanese government is unwilling to assent to the American proposal of some form of international action in the Chinese-Soviet situation.

While official comment was unavailable today, the Associated Press found that the well-informed consensus in Tokyo was that prospects are good for an early peace between Mukden and Moscow, and the relaxation of Russian military pressure would make intervention either in the form of mediation or a joint declaration undesirable.

M'CORMICK AID FACES QUIZ

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Nov. 29.—(AP.)—Kenneth McKillip, 61-year-old chief of Stanley McCormick's male nursing staff, today was called upon to resume the witness stand to recount further details of the multi-millionaire incompetent's life under cross-examination by Newton D. Baker, counsel for the wife of the wealthy invalid.

McKillip, who completed his direct testimony and was on the stand for cross-examination Wednesday when court adjourned for the Thanksgiving holiday, said he had lived continuously with McCormick since the millionaire became insane in 1906. He testified in detail regarding the patient's life under complete or partial restraint at River Rock, the McCormick estate near here.

The principals in Mrs. McCormick's suit to oust Harold F. McCormick and Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine, brother and sister of Stanley, as guardians of her invalid husband, spent yesterday participating in holiday festivities.

Baker indicated he would question McKillip at length regarding McCormick's physical and mental condition over a period of years, and probably would keep the witness on the stand through most of the day's court session.

what a cosmic inventory would be. But men will make it, including everything within the telescope's reach.

LABOR unions in the North are asked to raise $1,000,000 to unionize the South. One million would not suffice, or $100,000,000. The South does not want unionized labor, in many places, the objection including not only owners of open shops, and mills, but many that work in the mills. It would cost as much to establish unionism in some parts of the South as it would to establish Darwinism there.

OVER a bridge of boats, the dignitaries of Venice have made their annual solemn crossing of the canal to the church of Santa Maria Della Salute, "Holy Mary of Health," to give thanks for stopping the plague in 1630, just 299 years ago. Santa Maria Della Salute was built in gratitude when the plague was miraculously stopped after the building of the church had been promised.

In the prosaic days, authorities would put signs reading, "You can not get Asiatic cholera unless by swallowing it. No raw fruit, or other food no water or milk unboiled." The world is less romantic, less interesting than in 1630, but there are few plagues.

Burglar Alarm False, No Need For Police

A dozen excited policemen, several armed with riot guns, poured into the Second National Bank at Federal street and Park way at 9:05 a. m. today ready to fight it out with robbers.

"Where are the bandits?" they asked.

There were no bandits. An employe had accidentally kicked the burglar alarm.

didate for mayor at the last election, postponed his entry due to the death of a son.

They gathered in the office of their attorney, Henry Ellenbogen, to march to the county jail. They all appeared in good humor.

The four are going to give up 30 days of freedom rather than pay fines of $100 each.

They were arrested on August 15 when they tried to speak in an anti-war demonstration at Union avenue and East Ohio street. Magistrate E. M. Hough fined them $100 for holding a meeting without a permit. They contended that, if they hadn't a permit, they had applied for one.

They appealed. County Judge Thomas C. Jones upheld the police court magistrate. Mrs. Toohey, wife of Pat Toohey, secretary-treasurer of the National Miners' Union, and the four men chose jail.

COMMUNIST STATEMENT

Before the quartet went to the jail Herman, organizer for the Young Communist League, issued a statement calling the decision of Judge Jones "a definite part in the campaign of terror against working class organizations and especially against the Communist party.

"It is not an accident that members of the Young Communist League and Communist party were sentenced to jail. Our organizations held tremendous anti-war demonstrations, issued many shop papers to workers in the steel mills and coal mines, participated actively in the mayoralty campaign, putting forth the Communist program.

"We go to jail with the same determination to carry on the most relentless struggle against capitalism."

Builder of Gotham Tunnel Dies in South

After doing construction work in Peru, Schneider came to Florida in 1908 as manager of a phosphate company. He was later city manager of Lakeland.

WATSON SEEKS SENATE PEACE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(INS.)—Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader of the Senate, returned to Capitol Hill today after a vacation in Florida, to iron out differences in the ranks of his senatorial party.

Watson will supervise a pending session of the Republican committee on committees, called to fill a number of important vacancies in chairmanships and committee assignments. The most important change will be the naming of Senator Jones, of Washington, as chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, to succeed the late Senator Warren, of Wyoming. This promotion of Jones will result in his resignation as assistant floor leader and the selection of another senator as aide to Watson.

The promotion of Jones will bring changes in the chairmanships of a number of other committees. This list will be topped by the promotion of Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, to the chairmanship of the Senate Commerce Committee, with its control over oceanic shipping, flood control and commercial aviation legislation.

Vacancies on the Foreign Relations, Finance and Appropriations committees also must be filled, along with less important posts. At present, the three important assignments appeared likely to go to Senators Robinson, of Indiana; Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, and Senator Johnson.

Watson meanwhile announced he would confer with leaders in the next few days to arrange early action on the President's proposal for an immediate reduction in taxes. Although the measure will start in the House, Watson said he expected its enactment before Christmas.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—A blonde Norwegian girl, who immigrated recently and got a job as chambermaid, is in the social register, for a year at least. The latest issue notes that Miss Adelaide Ingebretsen was married to William W. Willock, Jr., at Oyster Bay, November 6.

Willock, Sr., steel magnate, has forgiven the elopers and presented them a house on his estate.

The register omits Mr. and Mrs. James J. Tunney, whose marriage it noted last year. It mentions Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Wounded Wolf Drags Trap 27 Miles, Then Dies

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 29.—(AP.)—A large grey wolf, which for months has terrorized the large herds of deer which roam through Algonquin Park, is dead. The manner in which he died won for him the admiration of the government foresters at the park who were formerly his bitterest enemies.

Traps had been set for the big marauder in vain. It appeared he would never be caught.

Jim Shields, chief park ranger, finally outwitted the wolf by placing a cunningly laid tray fastened to a four-inch pole. Visiting this snare one day, Shields found the trap gone and evidence of a mighty struggle. The wolf had gnawed through the thick pole and taken the trap away with him.

Shields and assistants then followed the trail and after 27 miles of tramping came upon the body of the wolf with the trap still clinging to his foreleg.

John Miller, superintendent of the park, visiting William Finlayson, Ontario Minister of Lands and Forests, told the story of the wolf's valiant fight for liberty.

MacDonald Pays High Tribute to America: U. S. Never Failed Any Great Human Cause

One of the highest tributes ever paid to Americans and real Americanism is that delivered by Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain. His remarkable utterance, delivered at a tea in the House of Commons, has been characterized by statesmen as worthy of being engrossed in the halls of the United States Congress. Speaking of the attitude of leaders in American political thought as he observed it on his recent visit, Premier MacDonald said:

"They certainly are not going to co-operate with us as allies bound by formal ties. They certainly are not going to commit themselves to European policy and mix themselves up in European messes. No president of the United States is going to go back upon their wise traditional policy of keeping out of European messes.

"It is perfectly evident at the same time that wherever there is a human flag flying over the world, the thought and heart of America will be there. We have never been able to say the United States has failed in support of any great human cause."

M'DONALD VIEW BRINGS PRAISE

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE
United Press Staff

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The views expressed by Premier Ramsay MacDonald of England, in his speech at tea in the House of Commons, are gratifyingly similar to those voiced by President Hoover in his Armistic Day speech, administration officials declared today.

While viewing the opinion that England and the United States are nearer an accord than ever before, they were particularly pleased that MacDonald warned his colleagues that the United States would adhere to its policy of avoiding European entanglements.

While withholding direct comment they pointed out a sharp similarity between the utterances of Premier MacDonald and the views expressed by President Hoover in his famous Armistice Day address and voiced the opinion that the United States and Great Britain are nearer an accord than at any time in history.

WARNING PLEASES

Officials were particularly pleased that Premier MacDonald warned Great Britain and Europe that the United States would adhere to its traditional policy of remaining aloof from European entanglements, or as the Premier expressed it, would not "mix themselves up in European messes."

In general the speech was regarded as a reflection of and response to President Hoover's Armistice Day address and a declaration that Great Britain holds the same views so far as the MacDonald regime is concerned.

It was regarded as the first time in history that a head of the British government has expressed an understanding of the traditional American policy of scrupulously avoiding European entanglements and a recognition of the American necessity for this attitude.

Senator Reed Smoot (Rep.), Utah, powerful Senate leader of the Finance Committee and sometime administration spokesman, said:

"I thoroughly agree with the statement of Prime Minister MacDonald. To my mind it shows that the British leader understands that the United States will be for ever and ever divorced from the League of Nations. It means that if we do go into the World Court it must be with the reservations which were attached to the original protocol when it was discussed in the United States Senate."

Senator Shortridge (Rep.), California, member of the Naval Affairs Committee, said:

NO ALLIANCE

"I believe that the Prime Minister is right in saying we will forever keep ourselves aloof from the entangling alliances of old Europe and the racial, political and personal animosities of the continent."

Senator Swanson (Dem.), Virginia, ranking Democrat on the Foreign Relations Committee, said:

"Premier MacDonald has in mind that the United States will not go into any agreement for the joint use of the British and American naval strength and that the United States will not enter into a British-American alliance."

Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, said:

"I was impressed quite vividly by Premier MacDonald's statement. I believe it stated our position fairly, that we will not enter into any league or combination with European nations, but will keep out of all entanglements whatsoever with the Old World."

It was the consensus of opinion that the Premier's remarks clearly revealed the understanding between the two countries.

As Paralleling the MacDonald address President Hoover in his Armistice Day address, said:

"The European nations have, by the covenant of the League of Nations, agreed that if nations fail to settle their differences peacefully, then force should be applied by other nations to compel them to be reasonable. We have refused to travel this road."

La Argentina

Thanksgiving crowds filled Syria Mosque to standing room capacity last night to hear an evening of Spanish music and to see the incomparable La Argentina in the dances and moods of Andalusia, Valencia and Seville. It took the dancer some time to break through the holiday stupor of the audience, but soon it was demanding repetition of all her steps.

J. Fred Lissfelt.

It is a strange music that we found in Spain during and after the war, when routine programs were forbidden and players had to delve into sources untouched until that time. It was a fortunate time for the music of Spain, for Albeniz, Granados and their colleagues had just gleaned folk tunes from the mountains and the bullring and set them into new forms. This music belongs to carnival scenes about Seville, to the superstitious rites of peoples away from the workaday world, to the gypsies of Biscay, and is sentimental, unrestrainedly passionate, sensuous, always provincial. To test the living quality of such music, it is best to hear an entire evening of its rhythms broken for a second by the music of another land, and then we may realize to what extent La Argentina and her castanets and costumes save the evening for the music of Spain.

It is as musician as well as dancer that we must consider La Argentina, for she too has gone to the very heart of her national music for her expression. Could any singer or any player create finer nuances than she accomplishes with her colors, her body, her castanets? And these very subtle nuances make her dancing so spontaneous. One must look beneath the obvious steps of the seguidilla and bolero to find the witchey of her meanings, and not be content with only the comic struttings of her Cuban dance.

The castanets of La Argentina speak a language, a music of their own, and can run the scale of all tonal or emotional dynamics. Each costume is not only a delight to the eye but the crowning touch to her music.

Miguel Berdion was a careful accompanist, and was well received during his solo numbers. He gave Liszt's "La Campanella" as an encore.

HANKOW, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—Mrs. Oscar Hellestad, American missionary who was kidnaped by bandits yesterday at her home in Sinyeh, Southwest Honan Province, was released last night and returned to the Lutheran mission at Sinyet.

Mrs. Hellestad, who is from Lebanon, S. D., said banditry was prevalent throughout the countryside.

The Rev. Ulrich Kruetzen, of the Franciscan Mission at Wichang, who was captured by bandits several weeks ago, again has written to his mission saying his captors were demanding 6,000 Mexican dollars ransom for his release.

MAURETANIA IN CRASH, SAILS

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—The Cunard liner Mauretania sailed for Europe last midnight, after a delay of 24 hours due to the necessity of repairs to the ship's port bow, which was damaged in collision with a railway car float late Wednesday night.

The giant liner left her pier with her regular quota of passengers, with the exception of one woman, who canceled her passage on learning of the illness of a relative when the ship returned to her pier after the accident.

Club at New Kensington Aids Tax Cut Drive

More signatures to income tax petitions urging a reduction of 50 per cent in taxes on earned incomes are pouring in from Western Pennsylvania citizens. The Kiwanis Club of New Kensington yesterday joined in the drive.

Service clubs, civic organizations and industrial groups are indorsing lower assessments on earned incomes.

Individual signatures, when presented to Congress and the executive authorities at Washington in the masses that are coming from all parts of the country are most impressive in convincing the administration that the public demands revision downward in the taxes on the incomes of the country's workers.

Signatures to the following resolution clipped from the Sun-Telegraph are sent to Washington promptly.

The resolution:

To His Excellency, the President of the United States of America;

To His Excellency, the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States of America;

To the Honorable, the Congress of the United States of America

Whereas, the earned income of an individual is derived from his labor and creative faculties, which are subject to rigid limitations, fluctuations and serious depreciation, while the income from property is a permanent and stable income, it seems inequitable to tax earned incomes on the same basis as incomes from property and invested capital without taking depreciation into consideration; and

Whereas, an earned income is the measure of value of services rendered by the worker to the community and an unearned income is the measure of value of the protection and other benefits received by an individual of the community; and

Whereas, to tax earned incomes heavily is to penalize thrift and industry and is a direct tax on labor and tends to retard enterprise and achievement, therefore

Be it resolved, that we, the undersigned, call these facts to the attention of the President, the Secretary of the Treasury and Congress, in order to secure a reduction of 50 per cent in the tax rate on earned incomes below the tax rate on unearned incomes.

U. S. REPLIES ON POLAR CLAIM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (INS).—The State Department, after a [illegible] replied to Great Britain's note calling attention to the British claim [illegible] the Antarctic [illegible] been explored by Commander Richard E. Byrd. Byrd already has answered it, but the [illegible] decided [illegible] this time.

The British note set forth as an offer to Byrd [illegible] was made because the Byrd expedition was over British territory by right of discovery. It stated in the region the British claimed was Wilkes Land, discovered by Capt. Charles Wilkes, U. S. Navy, in 1840. The British base of discovery on an Australian expedition made in 1912.

The American note dispatched November [illegible] last disclosed admits [illegible] of the British claims and [illegible] for the delay and apparent "oversight" in answering, but neither admits the justice of the British case nor puts forward any refutation. Neither does the United States lay claim to any of the south polar region.

Byrd is believed to be exploring lands the British never reached, and it is to be expected that the American government, when it feels the time opportune, will assert American sovereignty.

John Scholler 13 son of Walter P. Scholler, of 6525 Dalzell place, was recovering in Homeopathic Hospital today from injuries suffered yesterday in a coasting accident which his sled ran in front of an automobile near his home and was struck.

Thomas Cassanelli, 30, of 1015 Beechview street, alleged driver of the automobile, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and released on bond.

Miner Suspected Of Annoying Women

Police of Overbrook today were investigating John Williams, 38, a Negro, of Montour Mine No. 10, of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, arrested yesterday on suspicion of being the one who has been annoying women waiting for street cars in that section of the city.

NEW PEN BREAK THREATENED

HANNIMORA, N. Y., Nov. 29 (INS).—State troopers were on the alert at Dannemora prison today to prevent another attempt at a break such as the 1,500 prisoners planned for the night of [illegible] and [illegible] buried their selves [illegible] damage was reported to have been done by the prisoners yesterday.

Cold, Nothing Else, Silences Ponselle

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(INS).—A Metropolitan Opera star like Rosa Ponselle just can't get a cold bad enough to keep her from scheduled appearances without having to deny such rumors as having lost her voice, quarreled with the management, gotten secretly married and retired, or lost so heavily in the stock market as not to feel like singing—all of which the renowned diva denied today, with the additional statement that her voice was excellent and her cold better.

DOUBLE KILLING UNDER INQUIRY

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(AP).—There were two motives offered today to explain the Thanksgiving Day double tragedy in the Gold Coast apartment of the James Barrett Pauleys, ill health and market losses.

Pauley shot his wife as she sat working a cross-word puzzle. He then entered the bathroom and killed himself with the same revolver.

Both had been in ill health for some time, and there was evidence that they had suffered heavy losses in the stock market. There was nothing, however, to indicate that murder and suicide had been contemplated, and police today were still trying to find out what particular incident prompted Pauley to act just at the time the couple were preparing to attend a Thanksgiving Day dinner at the home of friends.

Mrs. Pauley, before her marriage to the coal magnate, was Elinor Ludlow, a famed Ohio beauty.

The late Gov. Asa Bushnell, of Ohio, was her uncle.

Before her marriage to Pauley she had been reported engaged to Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson, hero of the Merrimac in the Spanish-American War.

ALASKA STORM DAMAGE HEAVY

SEATTLE, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—As reports from canneries along the Bristol bay district of Alaska continued to sift into Seattle and estimates of the damage caused by the terrific gale and tidal wave of November 24 had reached $200,000, indicating the storm was far more serious than at first believed.

The only communication with the storm-swept district is through the signal corps, U. S. Army, at Dillingham, and the bureau of education station at Kanakanek.

Seattle offices of Libby, McNeill and Libby were advised that all its buildings and docks at Ekuk had been carried away. That shipways were destroyed and all floating equipment beached.

The cannery of the Northwestern Fisheries Company at Maknek reported all floating equipment, including numerous scows, on the beach.

Dispatches said the storm was the most severe and the tide the highest in years, having come from the southwest with a 20-foot wave.

As navigation is closed for the year to Bristol bay, cannery companies were preparing to send airplanes from Seward and Fairbanks to the stricken district to investigate the damages and the need of food supplies.

P. and W. Va. Link To Be Completed

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 29.—"The Pittsburgh & West Virginia extension from Cochrans Mill to Connellsville will be completed and the connection made with the Western Maryland," was the declaration of H. H. Temple, chief engineer of the company, who was interviewed here.

He declared the road would be completed from Cochrans Mill to the Monongahela River by December 15.

Artists Will Hold Cartoon Dance, Party

The Associated Artists of Pittsburgh will hold their cartoon dance and party the night of December 7 in the Fort Pitt Hotel. Prizes will be awarded for the best cartoons.

This startling letter from an ex-service man will interest everyone who suffers from constipation:

"I was discharged after the World War with heart trouble and bad stomach. I had saved about $1500. Since than I've spent that sum and a lot more on doctoring and operations and medicines. I always was bothered with constipation.

"I told my wife to get some kind of light breakfast food and I would try it. She came home with a small package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I ate it for breakfast, lunch and dinner, about a common tea-saucer full with milk at each meal. I have been doing this for about a month. I have stopped taking dope (medicines). I work 9 to 12 hours. I have a good appetite. And now I am gaining flesh and believe I am getting well."—George C. O'Connell, Barker, N. Y.

Cleanse your system of constipation's poisons. Thousands have regained their old-time vigor and vim, stopped constipation forever, by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

KLAN PLOT SEEN IN PEN RIOT

DENVER, Col., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Disclosure of the existence of an organized Ku Klux Klan group within the walls of the Colorado penitentiary, with both guard and convict members, presented a new angle in the investigation of the mutiny at the penitentiary October 3 in which 13 lives were lost.

The revelation was made by Thomas J. Tynan, for 16 years warden of the prison, in testimony before Gov. William H. Adams' special commission investigating the riot. He testified that plotting of the klan against the prison administration had caused a collapse of discipline.

Lack of proper discipline, traceable to this organization, was responsible for the outbreak of last month, during which a handful of convicts barricaded in a cellhouse held the entire law enforcement machinery of the state at bay for more than 18 hours, the former warden asserted.

Tynan charged that a former governor negotiated with klan officials in an effort to oust Tynan as warden. He timed that attempt during the administration of Gov. William E. Sweet. In his testimony, however, he did not mention Sweet's name.

"In order to get me in bad," Tynon told the commission "he (the governor) met secretly with the klan. As a result of these conferences, charges were preferred against me."

Fall From Log Train Causes Man's Death

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 29.—As a result of injuries sustained when he fell from a log train, Russell Yaste, 21, of Jennings, Md., employed by a lumber firm at Boswell, died last night at Memorial Hospital.

23 ROADS FIGHT RATE CUT

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—A suit arguing that they are being deprived of property without due process of law is on file in Federal Court here in behalf of 23 railroads, including the Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Western Pacific and Union Pacific. The suit asked the court to set aside an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission reducing rates on refrigerator car shipments.

The order, according to the complaint, limits the railroads to the collection of actual icing charges while there are many other expenses incidental to the handling of refrigerator cars.

GLICK ATTENDS INDUSTRY MEET

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 29.—Secretary Peter Glick, of the State Department of Labor and Industry, is in Philadelphia today, representing Gov. John S. Fisher at the conference of industrial leaders being held in the Manufacturer's Club in that city. At this conference business leaders and officials of New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania will discuss President Hoover's construction program.

The Industrial Relations Committee, the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, the Camden Chamber of Commerce and several other civic groups, are acting as hosts. Secretary Glick will outline building plans for the state of Pennsylvania. New Jersey will be represented by Gov. Morgan F. Larson. Mayors from the principal cities of the tri-state territory also will be present.

BIG DEER KILL FORECAST

HARRISBURG, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—An unusually heavy kill of deer, estimated at between 18,000 and 25,000, was forecast by the state game commission for the 1929 season, which opens next Monday.

In 1927, the last year that buck deer could be legally shot, there was a bag of 14,374. This number will be appreciably increased, in the opinion of the commission, because the shooting last year was confined to does and because of the scarcity of the food supply.

At the time the commission issued an appeal to sportsmen to take along sacks of corn or other grain and plant them in the woods to prevent starving of the game over the winter, and assure a sizable number for next year's hunting.

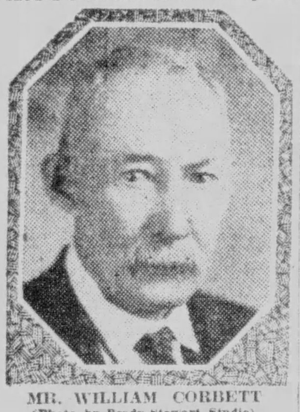
RHEUMATISM IS ROUTED BY NEW KONJOLA!

Pittsburgh Man Thought His Case Hopeless — New Medicine Brings Welcome Relief

Here is good news for those who suffer from rheumatism and who may fear that there is no relief. Every day come reports of Konjola's victories over this dread disease; indorsements filled with cheer and encouragement for all who are seeking the medicine they should have had in the first place.



MR. WILLIAM CORBETT

Konjola, with all its 32 ingredients working together, goes to the very fount and source of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola cleanses and stimulates the organs of digestion and elimination, and rids the system of accumulated poisons and impurities. But learn all about Konjola from the Konjola Man nearest you. There is a Konjola Man in Pittsburgh. He is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street. Call this man and hear of any number of cases like that of Mr. William Corbett, Rebecca and Penn Avenue, who suffered for years from rheumatism and then found wonderful relief through Konjola. Read now what Mr. Corbett recently said to the Konjola Man:

"If you suffer from rheumatism do not spend any time or money hunting the right medicine, for I can tell you from my own experience that Konjola is what you need. For several years I had severe rheumatic pains across my back and shoulders, and in my ankles, legs and feet. My ankles were so swollen and my legs so stiff and painful that I could not take a step without suffering the most intense pain. This continual pain brought on a nervous condition which caused me many sleepless nights. Morning found me feeling as though I had not been in bed. I felt weak, tired and worn out. I had about given up hope of ever being able to enjoy life again, as medicine after medicine and treatment after treatment failed to give me any relief.

"My attention was attracted to Konjola by indorsements of this new medicine by a number of Pittsburgh people and, even though I had little faith in it or any other medicine, I was eager for relief and decided to take one more chance. Well, I soon learned that I was taking no chance with Konjola, for this new medicine began to show results almost immediately. Day by day the pains became less and less severe. My bowels were regulated and my appetite increased. It only took eight bottles of this remarkable medicine to completely relieve me of all pain and suffering. The swelling is all gone from my ankles and I can walk better than for years, and I am enjoying health I feared I never would have again."

So it goes: the same splendid story of success when Konjola is given a chance to prove why it is the most talked-of medicine in America.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. Konjola is sold also by all Dow Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

PAIR IN $15,000 THEFT CAUGHT

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(INS.)—Two Negro bandits who invaded the home of William J. Pancoe, millionaire stationer, and fled with $15,000 in jewelry after threatening to kill him, his 5-year-old son, and Mrs. Pancoe, were captured last night.

All of the loot was recovered.

The robbers entered the residence by removing a pane in the kitchen window, and awoke the child while prowling around. In response to its whimperings the parents came into the room, and were seized by the robbers. When Mrs. Pancoe refused to reveal the hiding place of her jewels, they threatened to shoot the family. Mrs. Pancoe complied.

While the robbery was in progress two policemen outside noticed what they thought might be a suspicious car and took down its number. When the robbery was reported, they quickly traced it down and arrested Len Franklin, former houseman for the Pancoes, and Henry Nethers.

Coughs

YOU know the feeling. Full of pep. Can't be beaten. Sitting on top of the world! Doing something every minute and wondering what you'll be doing next...

Then suddenly a cough develops! Ambition is just a memory! You're run-down—dead tired—all in—worn out.

WHAT NEXT?

No wonder!

For coughing uses up your energy more quickly than any other bodily exertion. Don't let a cough "hang on." Medical science has proven that 15 minutes of coughing is more exhausting than a mile swim or a 3-mile walk.

Pertussin brings quicker results by a safer method. It relieves the cough by getting at the immediate cause. Made by the Special Taeschner Process, it helps to loosen the phlegm, soothes the irritation and quiets the cough.

Remember: Don't cough unnecessarily. Conserve your energy. Take a spoonful of Pertussin the moment you feel a tickling in your throat.

TEST PLANES IN LONG TANK

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—A tank, 400 feet long, six feet deep and eight feet wide, is being constructed here for the purpose of testing new designs in seaplane floats. Model aircraft equipped with miniature floats will be towed through the water in the tank at a speed of 30 feet per second.

The building of the tank is the first step towards equipping a laboratory for aerodynamic experiments to be undertaken by the aeronautical research branch of the division of physics and engineering in the National Research Council.

Custody of Child Decided by Court

BEAVER, Pa., Nov. 29.—Judge William A. McConnell awarded the custody of Edwin, 5, to his mother, Mrs. Elsie Campbell-Woodroof, of Pittsburgh, for nine months, or during the school term, and to the father, Orin H. Campbell, Beaver Falls, during the summer vacation.

3 CHILDREN DIE IN BROOK

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 29.—(AP.)—Three small children were drowned as they fell through thin ice on Two Mile Brook, near here, and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Parlin nearly sacrificed their own lives in their frantic rescue attempts. The children were Beatrice, 5; Irene, 6, and Catherine Alberta, 8.

Mrs. Nellie Parlin is in a critical condition from shock and exposure. She was dragged from the icy water by her 11-year-old son, Levitt, one of the nine Parlin children. The youngest of the nine Parlin children was born three weeks ago.

The father, summoned from his work in an Augusta garage, rushed to the brook which traverses the Parlin farm within 75 yards of the house. In attempting to recover the bodies of the children he was swept under the anchor ice of the stream and with difficulty was pulled to safety by his brother, Lowell.

The bodies of the three sisters were recovered.

State Police Find Liquor in Taxicab

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 29.—With the arrest of George Hannon, South Brownsville taxi operator, and Lewis Nelson, Isabella, state police believe they have uncovered a new taxi liquor running racket in Fayette county. A suitcase, containing three one-gallon cans and a half gallon jug of liquor, was found in Hannon's taxi. Hannon, when haled before a justice of the peace, denied ownership of the suitcase and Nelson declared that he had never before seen the handbag. Officials held both for court.

What's the Doctor's first question— when you have a COLD?

WHY is it that the first thing the doctor asks is, "Have you taken a laxative?"

It's because he knows that Nature has no chance to rid you of your cold if your system is already clogged with intestinal poisons. He also knows that it is important when a cold lowers vitality that the laxative be mild, gentle and safe.

Such a laxative is Ex-Lax! Its scientific laxative ingredient has been popular with the medical profession ever since its discovery—and in Ex-Lax you take it in its most delicious form.

So at the first sign of a cold—take Ex-Lax, 25c and 50c boxes, or a 10c trial size at your druggist.

The first step in treating a cold—

HELFER'S NEW ALL-AMERICAN WATCH POLICY WINS PRAISE

Wherever you go, you're sure to hear it—folks in all walks of life—all occupations—all places are talking about the new Helfer all-American watch policy. It's everybody's satisfaction assurance. It means better watches, made right in our own Country, by our own workers. American watches lead the world in value and beauty and accuracy. No matter what price range anyone may be interested in, there is an American watch for them.

The directors of the Helfer Bros. Co. have made a most complete and detailed analysis of the watch situation during this last year. A tendency has been found to exist lately to bring some low grade and inferior quality foreign-made watches into this country. To avoid any of these coming into the possession of Helfer customers, they have decided to eliminate all foreign makes from regular stock. Helfer's will only sell them by a "special order."

From now on, the KING OF DIAMONDS will only show watches made in America. There will be many benefits derived from this policy by the general public. First and foremost, it boosts American industry, it brings you standard and reputable makes, at standardized prices. Only reputable jewelers can sell them, and they are backed unconditionally by the manufacturers, and Helfer's sell them at the nationally advertised price on the 52-week Payment Plan.

THOUGHT HE WAS A BACK NUMBER

Popular Bachelor Came Back With More Power Than Ever.

Ross Hamilton is a popular bachelor in his circle in Uniontown, Pa. He was the life of every party, the fun of the evening, and always ready for a frolic—and he is again. But there was a time when his pep failed, and he just dragged around. Let him tell about it himself:

"Last fall I had an attack of the flu that left me with catarrh and weakened so that I had to be especially careful of myself for several months. The flu left my stomach in bad shape, and my bowels would not work right. That made my blood poor and thin and I lost weight, so that I felt the cold last winter more than ever before in my life. Then first one thing and another, I got to a pretty low state of health. All the vim and vigor I formerly had was gone. I had no get-up or courage and no pep. I used to like people around me all of the time, but best winter all I wanted was to huddle over the fire. I was ashamed of my condition, and I would not go out with people on that account. I got so I was a back number—or thought I was—and imagined everybody looked on me that way. The boys and girls I had known were cordial enough, I suppose, but I lost some mighty good friends by my neglect.

"One day I saw a window display showing World's Tonic. I thought a tonic might be a good thing for me, as I felt weak and discouraged, and I bought a bottle. Say, that was the best money I ever spent. That first bottle set my stomach to rights. My appetite increased and my food agreed with me. That food enriched my blood, and I felt much better. I kept on with the medicine. Gradually I grew more sociable and had more pep. Then I began to get real energy and vim. Soon I was up to the mark with the courage and vigor I had lacked. So, to make a long story short, I have come back with more ambition and power than ever before, won back my old friends, made new ones, have the enterprise I lost, and am a better man physically than I ever was as I can do more work. World's Tonic did it for me, and I owe a big debt of gratitude to this wonderful restorer." World's Tonic can be had at Dow's (formerly McCulloch's), also May's, and Mayflower Stores, or of any other first class drug store. (H-31)

ITALIAN HOUSE FETES PRINCE

ROME, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Before packed galleries the deputies of the Italian Chamber yesterday paid an impressive homage to Crown Prince Humbert and the Italian royal family at the opening of the regular autumn session.

The engagement of Crown Prince Humbert to Princess Marie Jose of Belgium, was officially announced by President Giuriati, who expressed the good wishes of the chamber. He read the royal announcement of the engagement.

Signor Giuriati recalled the warm welcome that Belgium gave to Prince Humbert during his recent visit and the touching manifestations after the attempt to assassinate him. He declared the Prince had shown himself not at all perturbed by danger and was certainly worthy to guide one day the soldiers and people of Italy.

The entire chamber broke out into acclamations and cheers for the Prince, the royal family and Belgium.

The deputies will find virtually no unfinished business before them, owing to the diligence with which they dispatched governmental measures last summer.

After reading a list of the decisions taken by the government during the recess, Premier Mussolini said "the Fascist government dislikes and disdains praise, insults and blandishments, only wishing for frank, objective and intelligent discussion — namely, Fascist discussion."

Blow Over Card Game Fatal, Five Arrested

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 29.—Ray Harrington, 33, married, who suffered a fractured skull in an argument over a card game, died at Memorial Hospital. Jack White, Negro, alleged to have struck the blow that resulted in Harrington's death, was arrested and will be charged with murder. Police also arrested Joseph Brown and Wilbur White, Negroes, companions of White, and John Meredith and Robert Meyers, companions of Harrington.

Bessarabian Reds Quelled by Bullets

KISHENEV, Rumania, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Six hundred fifty persons were arrested here after police were compelled to use firearms in suppressing a demonstration by Bessarabian Communists. Although the officers seemingly fired directly into the crowds, it was claimed by the authorities that no casualties resulted.

Air Speed Record To U. S. Claimed By Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Mexican Aviation company claims a new record for speed between Mexico City and the United States had been set by one of its regular trimotored passenger and mail machines. The plane had the advantage of a tail wind and covered the 472 miles to Brownsville in 3 hours and 40 minutes. The plane reached Tampico in 95 minutes and required only two hours and five minutes to go from Tampico to Brownsville.

There were six passengers on the plane and Charles Drayton was pilot.

Church Workers Rehabilitate Toys

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 29.—Santa Claus has established a toy repair depot and through the efforts of the young men of the First Baptist Church, many poor children will be made happy on Christmas. Cast-off toys are being repaired and re-painted so that they will look like new when the Salvation Army makes a distribution.

RUBIO ELECTION CONFIRMED

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Mexican Congress last night adopted the report of its election commission and formally declared Pascual Ortiz Rubio, candidate of the revolutionary party, elected as president of the republic.

The report stated the successful candidate had received 1,825,761 votes, that Jose Vasconcelos, candidate of the anti-reelectionists, had been given 110,279 and that Pedro Rodriguez Triana, Communist, had received 23,279.

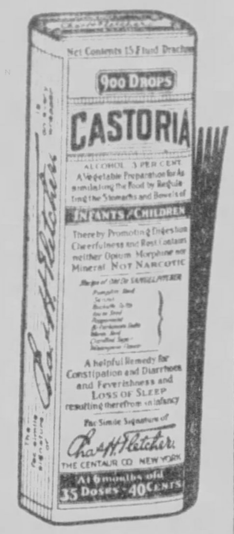
The fall of the gavel marking the official consummation of the November 17 election was the signal for an outburst of cheering in the Chamber of Deputies.

The parliamentary election commission rejected 140,000 votes as illegal. Included in these were about 1,000 votes mailed from Los Angeles.

Philadelphia Mayor Will Address Elks

FRANKLIN, Pa., Nov. 29.—Philadelphia's mayor, Harry A. Mackey, will arrive Sunday to deliver the memorial address to the Franklin Lodge of Elks.

When BABIES are upset



Baby ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea—a condition it is always important to check quickly. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready? There is nothing that can take the place of this harmless but effective remedy for children; nothing that acts quite the same, or has quite the same comforting effect on them.

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria; the genuine bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

VISIT TOYLAND AT HARRIS! BRING THE KIDDIES

FLAMES FATAL TO GIRL, 6

Severely burned when her clothing ignited from a gas stove in her home yesterday, Ruth Jackson, 6, of Bigler street, Mc Keesport, died later in the Mc Keesport Hospital. The child was burned while her mother was preparing the Thanksgiving dinner.

The accident was witnessed by the girl's five brothers and sisters with whom she was playing in the living room of the home. Ruth Jackson, 11, attempted to extinguish the flames. The mother, Mrs. Stanley Jackson, ran into the room when she heard the children's screams and beat out the flames.

Robbers Get $20,000 Receipts From Pies

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(INS)—The Thanksgiving pie trade received a considerable setback when eight armed men robbed the large Case & Merle Company's factory of $20,000. Much of the loot represented collections for the thousands of mince and pumpkin pies that polished off the turkey dinners of Chicago holiday tables.

The bandits bound eight employes and left two of them number to guard them while the rest blasted the company safe.

Stored Coal Burns At Mine Tipple

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Nov. 29.—Approximately 2,000 tons of coal in the mine tipple of the Valley Camp Coal Company at Stewartsville, was destroyed by fire.

KILLING MARKS SCHOOL FIGHT

CARRIE MILLS III, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Grief and unhappiness supplanted the spirit of the holiday in two Carrier Mills homes in the aftermath of an argument over when to hold a school Thanksgiving program.

Leslie Lightfoot, 33, school district director and teacher, was dead and Dwight Organ, 26, teacher, was held in the Saline County jail at Harrisburg, charged with slaying Lightfoot.

Lightfoot and two other directors of the school district decided the Thanksgiving program should be given this evening. Mrs. Lightfoot was asked to convey this decision to Organ.

Organ discredited the message from Lightfoot and called a meeting of the school district directors in a cafe Tuesday night. At the meeting, Lightfoot is said to have asked Organ why he questioned the message; an argument followed in which Lightfoot, witnesses said, struck Organ who in turn drew a revolver and fired two shots into Lightfoot's body.

'Peace Minister' For U. S. Urged By Bishop

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Bishop Thomas J. Garland of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Pennsylvania diocese, has advocated creation of the office of minister of peace in the United States.

"I believe it would be consistent to have a minister of peace as well as a secretary of war and he should be a member of the cabinet," Bishop Garland said at the Thanksgiving luncheon of the Poor Richard Club.

"A large proportion of the world speaks English and the English speaking race have it within their power to bring about world peace. The newspapers have a big influence in this direction."

CASHIER GIVEN ADDED TERM

COLFAX, Wash., Nov. 28.—(AP)—R. F. Bigelow, former cashier of the Colfax State Bank and president of the Colfox Savings and Loan Association, was sentenced to 15 to 30 years in prison on a plea of guilty to embezzling $100,000.

Bigelow previously was convicted of embezzlement of $33,000 and was serving a three year minimum sentence when it was found that his peculations would reach $100,000. He was returned here and pleaded guilty to three other charges of embezzlement. He was sentenced to serve from four to 30 years on each charge. The minimum of 15 years was fixed, to include the three year sentence he already was serving.

THANKSGIVING DAY gone, this is the banquet season for football teams. Those teams which enjoyed a successful season will be banqueted for their triumphs; the defeated teams will be banqueted in sympathy. Win or lose, you can't lose.

"And now Clarence, who is 7 years old, will sing 'Weary River,'" Cousin Lora announced over the radio.

Clarence mounted a chair, faced the microphone and began to unfold the musical story of the weary river.

Clarence sang: "I have been just like a weary—a weary—"

Clarence was silent.

"What's the matter?" Cousin Lora asked.

"Aw," Clarence shouted his disgust into the microphone, "I've forgot it."

Perhaps the incident falls flat on paper, but as it came over the air it was capital entertainment. And fairly typical of Cousin Lora's daily program. Youngsters come to her studio each afternoon to sing and recite. The program is probably intended primarily for a young audience, but it is swell listening for everybody. We recommend it.

Our guess is that Cousin Lora's is one of the most difficult radio jobs. But she handles it with rare intelligence. And in fairness to Clarence, it must be explained that on his second essay of "Weary River" he managed the number superbly. Some day he will be a great artist.

THERE is a story being tossed around in political circles that is supposed to be true. True or not, here it is:

For his political efforts a young man was rewarded with a position with which he was little acquainted.

After three weeks of it he went to his political sponsor and announced his intention to quit.

"I'm disgusted," he complained. "Ever since I've been on the job So-and-So's been following me around."

"Why, he's your assistant," his sponsor announced.

POLICE SEEKING SHARPSBURG SLAYER

Man Killed From Ambush While Entering House With Two of His Friends

County detectives today were without clues in their investigation of the murder last night of Thomas Montalto, 50, of Thirteenth street, Sharpsburg.

Two charges from a shot gun struck Montalto in the head and hip, killing him instantly. The shooting occurred in the back yard of Julius Ferrara, of 221 Twelfth street, Sharpsburg. Lieut. Samuel Fair, of the borough police said. Montalto was about to enter the Ferrara home when shot.

Ferrara and Same Bane, of Penn street, Sharpsburg, were detained by police for questioning. Both told police, they reported, that they were with the slain man and were entering the home when Montalto was ambushed.

In the victim's pocket, Lieut. Fair reported finding a loaded .32 caliber revolver, which led him to the belief that Montalto had been threatened.

County detectives who arrived on the scene shortly after the shooting were unable find a clue. Montalto's companions said they had entered the house when he was shot, and did not see the assailant.

SEWICKLEY FIRE UNDER INQUIRY BY POLICE

Blaze Causing $75,000 Loss During Family's Absence Investigated by Officials

Sewickley police, under Lieut. Arthur Crowse, today were investigating a mysterious fire which early yesterday destroyed the brick home of Frank L. Sage, general agent of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company in Pittsburgh, at 879 Thorn street, Sewickley. Fire Chief S. Y. McFarlane estimated the loss at $75,000.

The Sage family left Sewickley Wednesday night for a visit in Buffalo.

The fire, believed to have been caused by an explosion, had been burning at least an hour before it was discovered, according to Chief McFarlane. Firemen fought the blaze several hours before bringing it under control. Only the brick walls of the structure, which was a mass of flames when firemen arrived, were left standing.

The loss was swelled by the destruction of considerable antique furniture and a valuable library owned by the Rev. Carlton Sage, of Brooklyn, N. Y., a son of the family.

UNFORTUNATES FED ON HOLIDAY

Special religious services in all churches, and free dinners to unfortunates, and in orphanages, hospitals and penal institutions yesterday, featured Thanksgiving observances in the Pittsburgh district.

More than 1,600 men were guests at a turkey dinner in the Improvement of the Poor Home, on Duquesne way. Following a dinner in the County jail, theatrical headliners appearing this week in Pittsburgh theaters gave a special performance. Religious services were held by the jail chaplain. Special services in addition to a feast was provided prisoners in the Western Penitentiary.

Judge W. H. S. Thomson, of the United States District Court was the principal speaker at the dinner at the Parting of the Ways Home, 216 East Stockton avenue, North Side. About 100 former inmates of prisons attended the dinner, along with a number of business men who are interested in the work of setting former prisoners back in their place in society.

Judge Thomson praised the work of the home and said that it is the only agency in America in which an ex-prisoner has some rights in society.

CLEANING TURKEY BONES AT SOHO DAY NURSERY

Children at Soho Day Nursery finishing up the annual Thanksgiving dinner served at the nursery. The dinner, gift of James R. Dunn, required eight turkeys. Here Dora, you'll notice, is just cleaning up the biggest drumstick.

105 AT NURSERY EAT TURKEY

Eight big gobblers, donated by James Dunn, furnished ample food for 105 hungry little boys and girls of the Soho Day Nursery, Fifth avenue, at the institution's annual Thanksgiving dinner.

And that wasn't all.

Big plates of stuffin', mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, gravy and a lot of other goodies accompanied the festive birds to their natural holiday end—that of more or less complete digestion.

To paraphrase an old expression, the kiddies "fairly licked the dish." What's more, some few of them did.

Now on ordinary days the kiddies are put to sleep on their army cots in the big dining room, which is also an impromptu dormitory, immediately after the noon day meal. Each gets a two and a half hour nap. But not so this time. Excitement was too great. The children couldn't be quieted. Finally when Miss Nelle Coyne, superintendent, and her staff of nurses did get them to sleep, happy and peaceful faces showed from under the covers and indicated that sweet dreams of Mr. Gobbler were being enjoyed.

Whether some of those smiles later turned to groans of "tummy-ache" as a result of overindulgence in the white and dark meat is a matter of conjecture. Anyhow, each and every one seemed happy.

The children at the Soho nursery are cared for while their mothers work daily at various jobs throughout the city. A program of health exercises, coupled with kindergarten training under the supervision of Miss Margaret O'Shea occupies the minds of the children throughout the day.

PROBE HOLDS AUTHORITY CONFLICTS

Western Penn'a Penitentiary And Farm at Rockview Lauded in Handbook

Pennsylvania's prison system has been found ineffective because of conflicting authority in its administration, it has been found by the National Society of Penal Information.

In its Handbook of American Prisons and Reformatories soon to be published the society takes issue with the conduct of many institutions in the state, but praises the work carried on by Warden Stanley P. Ashe at the Western State Penitentiary at Pittsburgh.

Reference to the constructive politics instituted by Warden Ashe at the Western Penitentiary and at the prison farm at Rockview forms one of the optimistic chapters in the book. Of conditions in the Western Penitentiary the handbook sets forth:

PRAISE MORALE HERE

"Developments in this prison, in spite of obvious deficiencies, are promising. This is true because of its intangible rather than its tangible qualities.

"The high morale developed by the present warden has been maintained by intelligent direction and a recognition of what the function of a prison really is. This has been accomplished in spite of the handicaps of an antiquated plant and an industrial system that condemns a large part of the inmate population to virtual idleness.

"A scientific approach to the prison problem is more nearly reached here than in most prisons.

"The worst feature of the situation here is the lack of employment for the inmates.

"The local authorities have no responsibility for the industries, which are in charge of the State Department of Public Welfare. These industries employ only 250 of the 1,080 prisoners, almost exactly the same number employed in 1925.

"To keep the remaining 800 even partially employed it is necessary to pad the maintenance details so that many men have only a fraction of a day's work to do.

"The experience of both the Eastern and Western Penitentiaries shows clearly that Pennsylvania is still far from a solution of its prison industrial problem.

STATE CONDITIONS BAD

"Few states are in a worse condition in this respect. The state of affairs undoubtedly calls for a changed attitude toward prison industry on the part of Pennsylvania legislators, labor organizations and manufacturers. It may also call for a change in organization.

"The present system of divided control and divided responsibility has not worked.

"An admirable feature of the program at Pittsburgh is the psychological work, headed by Dr. Root, of the University of Pittsburgh, a member of the board of trustees, with an assistance resident at the prison.

"Not only has a significant study been made of nearly 2,000 individual inmates and the results published, but the work of the department has been effectively related to discipline, work assignment, education, parole, and other parts of the prison program.

"The arrangement whereby competent specialists are paid a small fee enables an unusual type of service to be rendered the inmates."

On the subject of conditions at Rockview Branch Prison, the Handbook continues:

LAUD ROCKVIEW WORK

"Unquestionably the most completely equipped cannery in the penal institutions of the country is at Rockview Branch Prison. Large quantities of foodstuffs raised on the farm are canned here and used in this and in other institutions of the state.

"The canning and garden work are excellent industries, their only limitation being that they are seasonal. The outstanding problem here, as in other institutions in the state, is the development of sufficient industries to occupy fully the time of all the men."

Officers Elected By Bellevue C. E.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Bellevue United Presbyterian Church has elected these officers: President, Josephine Fuchs; vice president, Lynn Shoup; secretary, Katherine Turnbull; treasurer, Kenneth Steele; prayer meeting committee, Mildred Thompson and Betty Harbison; social committee, Norman Bowman, chairman; lookout committee, David Ruth; music, Helen Wolf.

Skillful Pilot Balks Air Suicide

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 29.—(INS)—The flying skill of Harold F. Brown was responsible for preventing Earl Endicott, 25, from committing suicide by jumping from an airplane, it was disclosed here.

While Endicott was lying on a lower wing with his feet dangling over the side of the plane, Brown banked sharply and slid Endicott back against the fuselage of the ship.

Endicott was said to have been disappointed in a love affair and despondent over financial troubles. The youth declined to talk when taken to the police station, other than to say that he was from the East, but was now living in Los Angeles.

Bellevue Church To Pick Trustees

A meeting of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church Corporation has been called for December 11, in the church social rooms, for the purpose of electing three trustees. All members of the church over 21 are eligible to particpate.

NAME PENSION PLAN BODY

A committee to arrange for participation in the ministers' and missionaries' pension fund plan of the United Presbyterian Church has been named by the Bellevue U. P. Church as follows: J. H. Arthur, A. H. Holliday, W. F. Trimble, Jr., Dr. Thomas A. Miller, Ralph Witherspoon, and W. G. A. Millar. The church as a whole is seeking to raise a fund of $1,500,000.

Ford City Pastor Called to Hiland

The Rev. Basil A. Murray, of the Appleby Manor Presbyterian Church, Ford City, Pa., has been extended a call by the Hiland Presbyterian Church, Perrysville. He is a graduate of Western Theological Seminary and has been pastor at the Ford City church, which was founded by parents of the late Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, for seven years.

Man Victim of Gas Stove Blast Dies

Burns suffered when a gas stove exploded in his home early yesterday caused the death in Valley Hospital, Sewickley, of James Jones, 40, of 317 Thirteenth street, Ambridge, last night.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: Do you think a course in preparation for marriage should be added to the curriculum of the public school?

Peggy Hahn

PEGGY HAHN, student, Beechview: "I think a preparatory course in marriage would do much to alleviate a lot of misunderstanding among young people entering into marriage. Perhaps the divorce courts would not be nearly so busy if something like this were taught in the public schools."

Norbert Mayer

NORBERT MAYER, hotel porter, Oakland: "It is the first duty of the parent to instill in the child a proper moral training and this, I think, is the parents' job. Of course, the schools help to train the child, but they cannot assume the whole job of moulding their moral character."

Marie Gaugler

MARIE GAUGLER, cashier, Beechview: "Yes, I do. It is impossible to enter the business world without serious training and study and it is just as impractical to think of entering upon a career of marriage without a reasonable understanding of the proposition. Marriage, as a life-time job, is certainly more important than any other profession."

D. Thomas

DOROTHY THOMAS, manicurist, Oakland: "Yes, I believe such a course in the public schools would be a good thing for the younger generation. Young men and women would not step blindly into marriage if they knew more about it, and there would be fewer divorces and more real marital happiness."

M. B. Foster

MEYER B. FOSTER, druggist, Oakland: "No, I do not think the schools should take upon themselves the burden of enlightening youth concerning marriage. It is the parents' duty to give instruction in this all-too important phase of a child's education. The teacher cannot substitute for a mother and father."

Pearl Thomas

PEARL THOMAS, soda dispenser, Oakland: "Not being out of school so very long, I look upon the matter of marriage preparation as the duty of the parent. Public school education is broad enough as it is without the addition of a moral responsibility of this kind."

Heroic Vet Seeks Vainly For Pittsburgh Job

Corporal William M. Shane needed a job. An apparently apathetic community heard the story of William Shane, one of the men in the Armistice Day parade who wore a Distinguished Service Cross.

Many read, perhaps, how at Belleau Wood he had trundled 6-foot 2 Jack Groff, a captain from another company, through 100 yards of shell fire, dragged the 220-pound injured man to safety.

Wm. M. Shane

They read, perhaps, how he has to live and support his wife and three daughters on his government compensation. They inferred, or should have, that he had to move to Midway, for his health, but being born and reared on Herron Hill, wanted an easy inside job for the winter, so he could move back to town.

But so far no job offers have come to Shane.

County C. E. Chorus Will Give Concerts

Two concerts will be presented next month by the Allegheny County Christian Endeavor Chorus of 50 voices. Homer Rodeheaver, prominent musician and evangelist, will have charge of each concert. The first performance will be given December 9 in Carnegie Music Hall and the second the following day in the McKeesport High School.

Will Rogers

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Nov. 29.

One thing we have always heard of our President, Mr. Hoover, that while he may not be a political spellbinder, and able to sway a vast audience, but that he could take a small bunch of men, talk to em, and explain what he was after.

And he could have them coming out of the conference, promising to cut off a leg, quit smoking, or give up golf. Well lately he has certainly proven it.

He gathers em in, a little gang at a time, and when they come out, you would suspect that they had some drinks, for they immediately start announceing the spending of not only millions, but billions

Let's hope they don't sober up till the spending is over. We give medals for men laying down their lives for bravery, but this more, they are promising to lay down their money. So Hoover is not only a great general, he is a magician.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

NINE PERSONS INJURED IN HOLIDAY AUTO ACCIDENTS

FOUR MEN HURT AS CAR UPSETS DOWNTOWN

Driver Loses Control at Intersection; Four Women Victims in Day's Mishaps

Nine persons were injured in automobile accidents Thanksgiving Day.

When an automobile driven by Edward Zeliesko, 22, of 1015 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks, got beyond his control and overturned at Liberty avenue and Wood street, Zeliesko and three companions suffered severe lacerations and bruises. Zeliesko and his friends, Mike Belumes, 21, of 221 Bell avenue; Dominick Allaire, 19, of 128 Chartiers avenue, and Adolph Taravella, 21, of 218 Sansacore street, all of McKees Rocks, were taken to Mercy Hospital.

PASSENGER INJURED

Ruth Bauman, 30, of 5121 Liberty avenue, suffered cuts on the face early yesterday when an automobile in which she was riding crashed into a truck and another automobile in the Boulevard of the Allies at Grant street, police said. George Maxwell, 24, of 201 Bowie street, driver of the car in which she was riding, was arrested. The victim was taken to Mercy Hospital.

Struck by an automobile near her home, Martha Raynovich, 20, of 2832 Carson street, sustained bruises and contusion of the legs. Joseph Velta, 18, of 960 East Eighth street, Munhall, driver of the car, took her to South Side Hospital.

Earl McDermott, 45, of 39 Meadow street, suffered a probable fracture of the neck when he was hurled through the windshield of his automobile after it crashed into another machine parked in Carson street, near South Twenty-seventh street, according to police. His condition was reported as serious at St. Joseph's Hospital today.

WOMEN HURT IN CRASH

En route to the home of her son for Thanksgiving dinner yesterday, Mrs. C. B. Redmond, 54, of 214 South Winebiddle avenue, was slightly injured when the automobile in which she was riding collided with a truck in Wible Run road near Millvale. Her daughter, Emily, who was driving the machine, was cut and bruised.

The truck was driven by Clarence Berkman, of Wexford, and in the collision the Redmond car was knocked to the side of the road. It was prevented from going over an embankment by cables strung along the road. The women continued to the home of Dr. M. S. Redmond on the Butler Pike road, whom they were to visit, and he took them to the St. Francis Hospital for treatment.

...JRDERS WIFE, WOUNDS TWO

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 29.—(AP.)—B. Bennett last night shot and killed his 39-year-old wife with a double-barreled shotgun, and probably fatally wounded Herman Stafford and his wife, Mrs. Bennett's daughter.

Bennett was arrested shortly after the shooting. He was taken to the Duval County Jail at Jacksonville because officials believed neighbors and friends of the family might attempt violence.

Bennett has been at liberty under bond for appearance at the December term of Federal Court on a liquor charge.

Bennett told the officers he would like to return to his home to see "how many people I have killed." He made no explanation of the act.

THINKING IT OVER :-: By Hal Coffman

HER COMING OUT PARTY

You see here a debutante making her bow to her society.

Or, more accurately, her "stagger."

This coming-out party is not an unusual one, here or elsewhere. It happens every night in thousands of dance halls, night clubs, speakeasies.

The society in which the young woman makes her debut is the society of drink, drugs, vice, crime.

There is nothing snobbish about it. Everybody is welcome. You need not trace your ancestry to the Mayflower, or New Amsterdam, or Virginia, to climb into it.

Its social register—sometimes known as the police blotter—will include your name along with those of other distinguished members.

And you will make many "contacts" there—contacts that you cannot escape till death.

Think it over, as Mr. Coffman suggests, before you decide to crash into these EXCLUSIVE CIRCLES.

NICARAGUA-U. S. TERMS LAUDED

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—Foreign Minister Cordero-Reyes, of Nicaragua, who is on a special mission to all Central American republics, made an important statement about his country's relations with the United States, which he defended vigorously.

Referring to the inter-ocean canal through Nicaragua planned by the United States, he said "if there wasn't in America a power, such as the United States of America, capable of building the canal, we would have had to permit a power of another continent, perhaps of Europe to construct it."

Commenting on Secretary of State Stimson's recent statement about the withdrawal of United States marines from Nicaragua, Senor Cordero-Reyes said it had been agreed that the marines would be gradually withdrawn as the country as a whole became pacified.

Check Brightens Home of Evicted Family

Thanksgiving was made a little brighter for at least one of Pittsburgh's unfortunate families when Alice P. Clark, 1739 Beechwood boulevard sent a check to Mrs. Joseph Miller and her family, after reading of their eviction from their home.

"I am more than thankful," Mrs. Miller said when she received the check. "We had nothing, but because of this check, we were able to have our Thanksgiving dinner."

The family, which was ousted from its home in Reserve Township, is now residing in a house owned by Mrs. Maggie Neuberger, in East North avenue.

"We had no gas," Mrs. Miller said. "But the neighbors have helped us wonderfully since the Sun-Telegraph printed our story and pictures. We cooked our dinner in a neighbor's home."

DIED IN RUSSIA, VETS HERE PAY TRIBUTE

Bodies of 86 Michigan Soldiers to Be Honored En Route Through City

Eighty-six members of the Three Hundred and Thirty-ninth Michigan Infantry, who gave their lives in North Russia during the World War when that nation turned Bolshevik, will be paid tribute tomorrow night at 9:05 o'clock in the Pennsylvania station by Allegheny County Veterans of Foreign Wars.

At that time the bodies of these heroes will arrive via the Pennsylvania Railroad on the last lap of their final journey home—to honor and recognition in cemeteries of their native Michigan.

SERVICE AT STATION

In a 20-minute service at the station the flag-draped coffins will be honored when Allegheny County Council, drum and bugle corps members sound taps. A firing squad will fire three volleys over the coaches as P. D. Seybold, commander of the council lays a wreath on the caskets. Delegations will be present from every veterans' post in the county, it is said.

At 9:25 o'clock the funeral train will pull out for Detroit.

In a cemetery near that city all but a few will be reinterred with every honor the federal government, the state of Michigan and the Veterans of Foreign Wars can bestow.

A special commission appointed by the government through the intervention of the veterans' organization, co-operating with the Graves Registration Service, helped return the bodies from Russia and Siberian soil to the United States.

FIRST TO ARRIVE

The bodies are the first that have been removed from Russian territory since 1919. The Soviet government gave the commission every help possible. When the funeral ship left a Russian harbor last month guns boomed and sailors stood at attention as the vessel cruised into the open sea.

Writing of the difficulties encountered in recovering the bodies, Gilbert T. Shilson, in "Foreign Service," official publication of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, says:

"The recovery of the bodies is a wonderful feat in itself. Burial was often given under difficult circumstances.

"Sometimes they were buried in the tundra, wrapped in blankets. Taps often was whistled through frozen lips. Rude crosses were placed over the graves. In a short time the mounds lost their identity, save for the markers, among the millions of hummocks in the steepes and swamps. It was only with the greatest of luck and difficulty that the tombs were finally discovered."

24 UNIDENTIFIED

Of the 86 bodies returned, 24 are unidentified. Nineteen of 226 who lost their lives cannot be found.

Although burial services will follow immediately, a towering memorial shaft will be dedicated to the memory of the men next Memorial Day when the Polar Bear Association meets in Detroit for its annual reunion.

The soldiers were sent to Russia to protect Allied property in 1917 and 1918 after the country fell into the hands of the Bolsheviks, and to assist the unsuccessful Kerensky movement in overthrowing the revolution.

Household Water Rates Approved

The current year's schedule of flat water rates as they apply to households was tentatively approved by the finance commitee of council late Wednesday. Only a few slight changes in the rates will be made, it was said.

Auto Stalls, All Sights Seen, They Wed

HAMMOND, Ind., Nov. 29.—(AP.)—As Dr. R. O. Ostrowski, 48, explained it, he and Miss Mary Korman, 29, were stalled with their automobile in Elkhart; both had seen all the moving pictures being shown at the city's theaters; neither knew anyone there; so he proposed, she accepted and they were married.

The marriage of Dr. Ostrowski, which took place November 21, was of particular interest in that he was the last of a group of 15 physicians who formed an anti-matrimony club 20 years ago. All members of the group were attached to the staff of St. Margaret's Hospital.

The loot which the men were "splitting" was recovered by Patrolmen William Kessler and Harry Lindner, their captors, they said. In Brantley's possession, police said, they found a revolver.

WILKINS PLANE IN CRASH

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS
Commander of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition.

DECEPTION ISLAND, South Shetlands, Nov. 27.—(via S. S. Melville and San Francisco Examiner KUP Station).—Pilot Cheesman, flying the monoplane San Francisco, had our first accident of the season.

Cheesman was unhurt, but the tailskid and underpart of the fuselage were torn off as he landed on a pile of rocks. The machine maintained its upright position.

Our landing field is unavoidably narrow and lined on either side with rocks, removed when we made the runway last year

A cross wind sprang up during a lengthy trial flight, making it extremely difficult to land. A margin of three feet and the ship would have cleared the obstruction.

We at once set about making repairs and expect the plane will be ready for flight shortly.

"Scotty," arrested six weeks ago and his master fined $2, refuses to stay away from the Sewickley police station, in which he was jailed. He can't be chased!

SEWICKLEY DOG ADOPTS POLICE

Six weeks ago "Scotty" a valuable Scotch terrier, owned by W. F. Clarkson, of Sewickley, was picked up by police as a stray dog, and his master fined $2.

Since that time, "Scotty" has made the police station his headquarters apparently having decided to serve time in hope that if he did his master's money would be returned.

"Scotty" has been forgiven by Clarkson, but not yet by the police. If he had, his admirers believe the Chief of Police Thomas Whitmore, who fined Clarkson, would have returned the money.

A state law, according to police, provides that any dog found at large can be picked up and the owner fined accordingly.

Jack Eaton, custodian of the Sewickley borough municipal building said that "Scotty" absolutely refuses to stay home. "I chase 'Scotty' from the building, at night, but he is sure to report back the next morning," Eaton said.

DRY CHIEF GETS NEW CHALLENGE

John D. Pennington, prohibition director, today was tendered a second invitation to appear before the police trial board next Wednesday to make specific charges as to when, where and how policemen obstructed or failed to co-operate with prohibition agents in saloon raids.

Public Safety Director James M. Clark, returning from a western trip, issued the invitation. He also invited as well Mayor Charles H. Kline and the public.

Criticizing Pennington in turn for not making his blistering comment through police channels to city officials rather than in the newspapers, Clark stood back of Capt. P. P. Walsh's invitation to the prohibition chief to appear before the trial board and be specific.

"If any patrolman is found to have violated a standing order to co-operate with federal officers, he will be suspended, appear before the trial board, and I will recommend his dismissal," Clark said.

ARRANGE FETE AT MT. LEBANON FOR AVIATRIX

Welcome to Mrs. Thaden Planned at Reception Dinner Set for December 5

Mt. Lebanon appreciates fame.

The entire district as represented in the township Community Association is planning a reception on December 5 for Mrs. Louise McPhetridge Thaden who recently returned her home at 312 McCully street from an extended visit to Florida. It will be an "old-fashioned" welcome home, according to the committee in charge.

ACHIEVES FAME

Mrs. Thaden, once holder of the Women's speed record in the air, the altitude record for members of her sex and several other women's aeronautical records, achieved greater fame during the National Air Races at Cleveland when she flew in from Santa Monica, Cal., far ahead of a most distinguished field of woman aviators.

Since coming to Pittsburgh where her husband, Capt. H. V. Thaden, a airplane designer and builder is engaged in developing an all-metal craft for Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation, Mrs. Thaden's flying activities have been confined to short hops off the Pittsburgh-Butler airport, but she plans newer and more far-reaching activities in the air next spring, it is understood.

The reception for the famous woman flyer will be held in the new Princess Ann Apartments, Beverly road and Overlook Drive, Colonial Heights.

WILL TENDER DINNER

Officers of the Association will tender a dinner to Mrs. Thaden at 6:30 in one of the studio apartments and this will be followed by a general "open-house" reception to which the entire community has been invited.

Membership in the Community Association includes residents of Colonial Heights, Parker Gardens, Marlin Plan, Virginia Manor and the Bower Hill sections of the township. Officers include H. O. McGrath, president; E. B. Coll, J. F. Laboon and A. G. Smith, vice presidents; Floyd Bixler, secretary, and W. H. Babbitt, treasurer.

The committee in charge of the reception include A. G. Smith, chairman; R. W. Cranston, R. L. C. Jeffry, H. B. Johnston, and J. A. Lloyd.

Ambridge Police Relics Tell Story of Crimes

A hundred and one articles, from guns to American flags are contained in the collection gathered by Ambridge poilce during investigation of quarrels, killings and suicides.

Each article tells a story of its own, Sergt. William Riddlemann said today. There should be more oddities to tell more stories, but souvenir hunters have but little fear of police stations, according to Riddlemann.

"Here is a gun," Riddlemann said as he reached into the case, "that a man spent quite a little time on. He made it, polished it, perfected its mechanism—and then killed himself with it.

"This key caused quite a sensation when it was found in a suspect's pocket after a murder here a number of years ago. And here are two flags we found clutched by a man who was dying of a gunshot wound when police found him."

Files, knives of every sort, rope, rifles, shotguns, revolvers, knucklers, a cap pistol, a bottle that once contained poison, a piece of lead pipe, a stove lifter, a rope, a hatchet, all these are contained in the case. And each represents a sudden and a violent death.

MOVE TO SAVE ACCUSED WIFE

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(INS.)—In first move in a legal battle to keep Mrs. Genevieve O'Brien from the electric chair was scheduled today as defense attorneys sought the release of the woman who has been indicted as a conspirator in an alleged love plot which ended with the murder of her husband.

Attorneys for Samuel Howard Dorr, the widow's clandestine friend and landlord, have intimated that they will try no such move on the part of their client, also under indictment for the fatal shooting of O'Brien.

When the coroner's jury returned indictments against the pair, it found that Mrs. O'Brien had been implicated, although she did not commit the actual slaying. Her attorneys are seeking her release on the plea that she is being held as a material witness.

O'Brien was ambushed and shot down in his wife's room when he surprised Dorr and his wife early one morning. Dorr admitted firing the shots from his hiding place in the clothes closet, according to an alleged confession.

Australians Bolt Bruce, Farm Party

CANBERRA, Australia, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—A new Australian political party will be officially launched December 2 as the result of a rebellion by important Nationalists against the leadership of former Premier Stanley Bruce.

The leaders in the new venture are former Premier William M. Hughes, Senators Massey Greene and Leslie Duncan, and two members of the House of Representatives, George Maxwell and Walter Marks.

Spang, Chalfant Breaks Record in October

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

RECORD earnings were reported for October by Spang, Chalfant and Company, Inc. Net profit for the month amounted to $530,570 or 61 cents a share on the common stock. This compared with a previous record of $509,984 or 59 cents a share in September.

The gain in profits follows an exceptional showing for the first nine months of the year when more was earned than in the full year of 1928. Nine month profits reached $3,301,676 or $3.59 a share compard with $3,226,188 or $3.34 a share in the 12 months of the preceding year. The results for October bring profits for the 10 months up to $4.20 a share.

Shipments are continuing at a high rate. The last two months of the year cannot be expected to duplicate the results of October due to seasonal conditions. After making extremely conservative estimates of the profits of November and December interests close to the management expect net for the entire year to be equivalent to at least $4.75 a share.

Pipe Demand Improved

THE company is coming to the end of its second year of operations since the consolidation with Standard Seamless Tube which made it the fourth largest maker of steel pipe in the United States. Several factors have been responsible for the gain in profits. The economies resulting from the coordination of the activities of the two companies have been one of these.

Improved demand for pipe for several types of consumers has been another factor. The year has been marked by the placing of a large number of orders for line pipe. It has also seen a gain in oil field activity. The development of new pools contributed to sales in September and October, but all consuming lines were busy.

Operating Economies

SAVINGS in operating costs made possible by changes in plants have been another factor in increasing earnings. Since the consolidation the company has made large expenditures for plant modernization. Construction at the seamless tube mills is to be followed by other improvements at the welded pipe plants for which $500,000 was recently appropriated.

While some economies have been apparent in the earnings of the present year many of them will not be noticeable until 1930. The improvements just ordered will affect profits in the latter half of next year. Thus Spang, Chalfant will show a progressive improvement in its operating situation for a considerable period.

Expands Warehouse

WHILE the major portion of expenditures has been made at manufacturing plants, the company is also enlarging the Memphis warehouse. This will permit the storage of a greater amount of pipe and will also make it easier to handle stocks efficiently.

The company is maintaining an excellent financial position. Current assets amount to about $15,000,000 against current liabilities of about $3,000,000.

By October 31 the funded debt had been reduced to $8,917,000 from an original issue of $10,000,000 of 5 per cent bonds. The company also has $13,750,000 of 6 per cent preferred stock outstanding and 750,000 shares of common stock.

Police Chief Says Women Best Drivers

BOSTON,— (INS.) —Women automobile drivers, who had for a long time been the subjects of jibes at the hands of their male contemporaries, found a ready knight to take up the cudgels in their defense in the person of Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley.

Supt. Crowley, commenting on the proposed series of lectures exclusively for women who drive cars, said that men drivers need the lectures still more than the women.

"How many times do you hear of women being involved in serious automobile accidents, or brought into court on manslaughter charges? The answer is very seldom."

"I want to go on record as saying that, from my personal observation, I find women better than the men when it comes to driving."

Police Chief Claims Dry Plot 'Frame up'

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—Frank Cunningham, suspended chief of police at Campbell, Youngstown suburb, pleaded not guilty to a charge of conspiracy to violate national prohibition laws, charging a "frameup," when arraigned in Federal Court here today. He was released on $5,000 bond.

Nick Gorchoff, chief of the Campbell vice squad, and Mike Wollos, a Campbell real estate man, also pleaded not guilty to similar charges and were released on $10,000 bond each. They were arrested two weeks ago by federal officers, who accused Cunningham of selling "protection" to bootleggers.

Purks, of Charleroi, notified state police he was robbed of $24.

SUBURI, TOKIO ENVOY, SUICIDE

TOKIO, Nov. 29.—(INS.)—Sadao Suburi, Japanese minister to China and former Japanese charge d'affaires at Washington, committed suicide today by shooting himself in his room in the Fujiya Hotel at Miyanoshita.

A chambermaid in the mountain resort hotel, about 40 miles south of Tokio, heard the shot and found the diplomat lying on the floor with a bullet wound in his head. He died shortly afterward.

Grief over the death of his wife three years ago today was believed to have caused him to take his life. Friends of the statesman said that her death had greatly affected him and that he constantly grieved for her.

Suburi was 50 years old and regarded as one of the most brilliant of Japan's diplomats. He had recently returned from Nanking to consult government officials before undertaking new negotiations with China.

He served in France, Russia and as counsellor of the Japanese embassy in Washington. He was known as an expert on Chinese conditions despite his service in Western countries.

When appointed minister to China last summer he was looked upon as the logical man to bring about the policy of non-interference and close economic co-operation with China contemplated by the Japanese government.

PENSIONS GAIN NEAR MILLION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—A little group of nine gray haired women, whose husbands fought under the American flag 114 years ago when it had only 15 stars in its folds, are drawing a total of $450 a month, or $50 each, from the American government.

The annual report of the Pension Bureau records these widows of veterans of the War of 1812 and at the same time announces that the last veteran of the war with Mexico died in September this year. He was Owen Thomas Edgar, and served in the Navy. He was 98 years old when he died. There are 730 widows of veterans of the war with Mexico still on the rolls of the Pension Bureau.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1929, a total of $229,889,986.48 was disbursed for pensions, an increase over the previous year of $924,313.99. Pensioners decreased from 491,194 to 477,915, but new legislation increasing pensions to Civil War widows over 75 years of age raised the level of expenditures.

On June 30 there were 59,945 Civil War soldiers on the rolls, a decrease for the year of 14,985; also 181,235 Civil War widows, a decrease of 16,699.

The number of Spanish War soldiers was 178,804, an increase of 14,096 for the year.

Virtually all stores were closed and housefronts were draped in black. Newspapers appeared with wide black borders and with one accord declared November 28 must remain a day of shame for Bulgarians.

Demonstrations in protest of reparations payments were forbidden. The government was widely criticised for this step. Police were much in evidence but no untoward incident was reported.

Vatican City Shows Gunwoman Mercy

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—There was reason today to believe that as soon as a psychiatrist has examined Marguerite Gudum, the Swedish woman who tried Sunday to shoot Monsignor Smit, former apostolic vicar of Norway, the young woman would be sent home as quietly as possible.

It was understood Vatican City authorities had decided to drop the charge of attempted homicide against her, changing it to "armed menace."

BAR WILL SCAN GRANADY CASE

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—Announcement was made by the Chicago Bar Association that it would investigate the collapse of the trial of Lieut. Phillip Carroll, four members of his detective squad and four reputed hoodlums on charges of murdering Octavius Granady, Negro politician.

The association also indicated it would inquire into remarks made by Judge Joseph B. David during the trial, which was marked by verbal tilts between the court and Frank J. Loesch, 76-year-old special prosecutor.

The court at one time during the trial threatened to reverse the verdict if the defendants were convicted, referred to a state witness as an "unmitigated liar," and told the state its case was "inexcusably weak" and "spotted with perjured witnesses whose testimony smells to high heaven."

The five detectives and their four co-defendants were charged with slaying Granady during disorders in the "bloody 20th" Ward primary day, 1928.

Hunters' 'Disease' Merely Ivy Poison

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 29.—(AP.)—Suspected affliction of a number of hunters in Quarryville and vicinity with tularemia, a rare disease contracted from rabbits, has turned out to be nothing more than ordinary ivy poisoning.

Dr. Frank E. Coughlin, of the state bureau of communicable diseases, issued that diagnosis after examination of a number of persons at Quarryville. He said the hunters acquired the poisoning from handling rabbits which had come into contact with the ivy vines.

No actual cases of the disease, commonly known as rabbit fever, has been discovered thus far this year, he said.

CONVICT FACES BIRTH, DEATH

A verdict of a Federal Court jury was responsible for Stanley Rupienski, 36, Peterson plan, Versailles Township, spending Thanksgiving in the county jail, but under a sentence by Judge Nelson McVicar he will be out in time to join his wife and five children before the Christmas holidays. The jury found him guilty of theft of interstate freight. Judge McVicar ordered him to serve 25 days in jail.

Among those to greet him at the homecoming will be a two-months-old son, yet unnamed; but he will miss another son, Theodore, 15 months old, who was killed by being run over by a train. Both the tragic death and the new baby were events since his arrest by railroad detectives on July 22, for stealing two cases of batteries and two tubs of butter from a freight car.

Because it was an interstate shipment, he was turned over to the Federal authorities and has since been in jail. He was tried before Judge McVicar and the jury in the case deliberated many hours before returning its verdict late Wednesday afternoon. In imposing sentence the court took into consideration the long time Rupienski spent in jail awaiting trial.

During his trial his wife and new baby, together with the other children, were in the courtroom, and during the noon recess hour the father had his first opportunity to see the new baby and hear the particulars concerning the death of Theodore, who had crawled from the Rupienski home onto the railroad track and met his death.

When the jury returned its verdict Rupienski pleaded guilty to another indictment involving theft of interstate freight and on it was placed under parole for one year. Chester Zachousky, a co-defendant, at the trial, was acquitted.

Richard Bodycomb, 7-year-old son of Mrs. Henrietta M. Bodycomb, and the Woman's Glee Club of the University of Pittsburgh, will sing carols and a string quartet will fill out the music period.

ATTRACTIVE FUR SUIT AND CAPE FEATURED BY ATELIER

—Sketched In Paris—

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph,

PARIS, Nov. 29.—We are just rounding the cape in the ocean of fashion. Earlier in the season the pointed cape was seen especially on coats, but just now the round jaunty little cape swings animatedly from ever so many nice little frocks and coats. Many of these capes are detachable when used on tweed and other woolen dresses, and have been in high favor during the early autumn days that have been exceptionally mild here.

There has been some demand, too, for the fur suit lately, but it has not become very popular, it remains strictly a fashion for individual rather than popular favor, although it certainly does bestow something of an air of distinction upon its wearer. But many women fear that a fur suit will lend bulk to their appearance however supple the skins may be.

JUST to show how attractive and "different" a fur suit can be, we are sending you a sketch of one that is the pride of the famous fur house of Max. It is of baby pony in black and is ever so smart and original. The short curving jacket is bordered with a double band of gray and black astrakan, the turned-back cuffs are of the same, and to complete the charm of this fur suit, we have a nice little astrakan muff.

THE other sketch is an attractive example of the smart caped costume that we have mentioned as being so popular here. It is from Molyneux who favors this type of costume and was one of the first couturiers to show it. The model here sketched was in a fine black tweed, but it has proven so welcome that it has been ordered in both black and white and colored tweeds. The pleated shallow cape is detachable and so the frock is extremely useful and practical. Even an inexpert eye can detect that the frock is extraordinarily well tailored and of intricate cut. With the model illustrated here, Capt. Molyneux shows a black felt hat, silver fox fur, and sport jewelry consisting of necklace, hatpin and bracelet. There is an increasing tendency here to assemble the accessories for the costume at the same time it is ordered, so that the correct effect can be quickly acquired.

FAITH-HEALED CHILD HOME

Cecelia Matzie, 9, unable to walk unsupported since stricken by infantile paralysis five years ago, was celebrating her relief from her affliction at her home, 161 Maplewood avenue, Ambridge, today. Recovery was attributed to her visit to the grave of Father Patrick J. Power, in Malden, Mass., which she visited earlier in the week in company with her father, Andrew Matzie.

She returned to Ambridge yesterday. The crutches on which she used to hobble about prior to visiting the grave had been left in the East, her father said.

Mrs. Elide Vincent, 30, of 645 Melrose avenue, Ambridge, who accompanied the Matzies, said, in spite of her trip, her condition was unchanged.

The return of the Matzie girl, the return of the Matzie girl, her father and Mrs. Vincent, who was the occasion of a double celebration by their relatives and especially the child's mother. This because for several days, due to a misunderstanding, the mother had not heard from and believed harm had come to them. Mrs. Matzie who has been confined to her bed by illness, had understood them to be on their way home Sunday. When they did not arrive Monday or Tuesday she became almost panic stricken. She was overjoyed when direct word of their return was received from them and a short time later they arrived home.

TAR, FEATHERS GIVEN DOCTOR

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 29.—(INS.)—With a coating of tar and feathers covering the lower part of his body, Dr. V. E. Latimer staggered into police headquarters at Penticton, B. C., and charged that he had been kidnaped by several men under the leadership of Charles Oliver, the son of a former premier of British Columbia. He had been lured out of town on the pretext of treating an ill man, he told police.

According to Dr. Latimer, his assailants gave him a severe beating and removed his clothes. A bucket of hot tar was then brought forth and the men daubed it on him with a brush.

Oliver was placed under arrest and later released on $5,000 bail. Recently Dr. Latimer's office sign had been painted in red lettering, "Abandon hope all ye who enter here."

'Mayflower' Sold To Pay Wages Of Crew

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(INS.)—It's named the Mayflower but it's just an insignificant boat and not the yacht that carried five presidents until President Hoover discarded it. But it has a unique distinction.

It is the first vessel ever to be sold here to pay the wages of its crew. The United States marshal auctioned the boat to clear an alleged $1,500 debt. Two Alexandria, Va., men bought it.

Italian King and Queen To Visit Pope Dec. 5

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 29.—(AP.)—If the walls of the throne room of the Vatican had ears, they would hear words spoken on Thursday, December 5, of historic interest, for the speakers will be Pope Pius XI, King Victor Emanuel and Queen Helena of Italy.

There will be no listeners except the walls. The doors of the throne room will be closed. It will be the first visit any King of Italy has made to any Pope.

To American tourists who "do" the vatican, the throne room is unknown. It is not on the list of the hundreds of rooms and salons which they are permitted to visit. It is not in the guide-books.

On the right, as one enters it, is the Papal throne, a raised armchair, richly ornamented, standing beneath a square canopy of red velvet embroidered in gold. Around the room are a few gilded chairs, and several tables against the wall, with religious ornaments upon them.

The room is very simply furnished. It might almost be called bare, except that what furnishings there are, are very rich.

The approach to the throne is through a series of beautiful rooms. The King and the Queen will first enter the magnificent Sala Clementina, a huge room with beautiful murals. From the Sala Clementina the King and the Queen will walk through the Sala Degli Arazzi, or hall of the tapestries. In this room hang three great gobelin tapestries presented to the Pope by Louis XV, of France.

Behind the throne room is the Pope's private library. Here the Pope receives privately. This is the Pope's working-room.

Look Lovely Tonight

Sallow, Dingy Skin made Lovely —Coarse Pores become Fine— Stops oily skin, removes blackheads

Cremed Magnesia clears the skin in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach

The newest discovery in beauty culture is that cremed magnesia beautifies the skin instantly, in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach. This is because skin impurities are acid. Doctors treat acid inside the body with milk of magnesia. And now, dermatologists are getting amazing results in banishing complexion faults with cremed magnesia. All you do is anoint your skin with it, massage and rinse with water. It's as simple as washing your face.

It reduces enlarged pores to the finest, smoothest texture. Being astringent, it drives away the telltale signs of age. It rejuvenates the skin so quickly that any woman can look lovely tonight, years younger.

And because it is so mild, it certainly is a blessing for fine, sensitive skins that soap so easily irritates and coarsens. It removes make-up and extracts impurities deep-set in the pores better than soap or cold cream. It changes dull, sallow skin to radiant clearness and fades out freckles better than a bushel of lemons.

Test it on those clogged nose pores that stand out so boldly. Let it whiten your neck. It will also keep your hands soft and white. To get genuine cremed magnesia, ask your druggist for Denton's Facial magnesia. Remember, five minutes works wonders. So get your magnesia today and look lovely tonight.

GUARANTEE

It's impossible for Denton's Facial Magnesia not to improve your complexion. But, should it fail to delight you, even after the very first application, your dealer is requested to refund your money at once without question.

DENTON'S CREMED
Facial Magnesia

NOTE: Do not hesitate to try this marvelous skin treatment at once. Thousands of delighted women have written they could not believe anything so simple could be so wonderful. But they were convinced when they saw so many friends suddenly get lovely complexions.

TRUCK BURNS, PRODUCE SAVED

A delivery truck, owned by the J. Kenny Transfer Company, of Carson street, was damaged today when its upholstering caught fire in front of a store at 202 Robinson street, Oakland. Produce and groceries were being unloaded at the time. The interior of the vehicle was seated by the flames and the driver's cab burned. Firemen estimated the damage at more than $500. The contents of the truck were saved. Cause of the blaze was undetermined, firemen said.

Keyhole in Court As Evidence in Divorce Suit

LONDON, Nov. 29.—AP.—One of the most curious exhibits ever seen in an English court room was produced when a keyhole was introduced in evidence in a divorce case so that the jury might judge how much could be seen by peeping through it.

The keyhole was completely surrounded by a drawing room door and Justice Hill allowed the whole door to be placed in evidence upon the plea of counsel that there was a question of observations having been made through the keyhole and that the jurors might like to test its possibilities for themselves.

SEES STEAM, FINDS STILL

Patrolman Patrick Carroll was strolling in Brighton road early today when he, he noted steam pouring from the second floor of an apartment. He investigated and found, so he said, a 400-gallon still functioning in the apartment of William Wallace, 39, of 1532 Brighton road.

Carroll reported seizing the still, 37 barrels of mash and 25 gallons of moonshine.

Wallace was arrested on a charge of violating the state prohibition law.

Apples Have Qualities Valuable to Our Health

To have perfect health, we must have a diet which consists of "balancing foods." For that reason, and for others, I recommend the apple. They have a stabilizing effect upon the diet.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Health Commissioner from New York City, United States Senator from New York.

THERE are refreshing and digestive stimulating acids in the apple. These, added to their laxative effect, the roughage and the vitamins, make this one of the most valuable and popular of fruits.

Because of the many varieties of apples, one never tires of them. Each has its separate appeal. They are wholesome, digestible and, as I said, slightly lavative.

Enormous quantities of apples are grown in this country, as some statistics will show. In 1926, 250,000,000 bushels were grown in the United States. In Canada, in every province, the apple is grown in great abundance and is rich in quality.

Apples are of particular value as a protective food. There are in apples the vitmans A, B and C to a certain amount. A is for growth. B is also for growth and more for the welfare of the nervous system, and C guards against bad teeth, laziness and is an aid in proper nourishment.

BALANCES DIET

To have perfect health, we must have a diet which consists of "balancing foods." For that reason and for others, I recommend the apple. If a person has been thin, emaciated and nervous, he should partake of an "upbuilding diet." Apples must be included in this connection, not because they are fattening, but because they have a stabilizing effect upon the diet.

A well-known writer has said that unfermented apple juice is most wholesome. The flavor is due to malic acid, and it is an excellent antiseptic or disinfectant for the stomach and bowels. It is of value in biliousness, constipation, jaundice, in gastric and intestinal catarrh, and in cases where the kidneys and the liver are disordered.

SERVED MANY WAYS

There are many ways to serve apples, besides eating them from the hand. Many salads contain them. Delicious desserts are made with apples, as well as apple dumplings, apple pie, fried apples, and apple sauce.

Grandfather used to eat an apple every night to keep fit, and made the mode attractive by scraping an apple for the small grandchild beside him. Wise is the man in these days who follows the apple habit.

CARAMEL PUDDING is most delicious when prepared with 1 cup brown sugar, 2 cups milk, ¾ cup flour and 2 eggs.

Mix the sugar and 1½ cups milk. Scald in double boiler until sugar is dissolved. Mix flour with beaten egg yolks and the remaining ½ cup of milk and add to the hot milk, stirring constantly until it boils. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Serve cold with whipped cream.

ONCE mention of garlic was taboo in polite society. Then along came Italian restaurants with their stimulating appeal. Men liked Italian cookery, and very soon women began asking for recipes.

You can't prepare a dish of Italian spaghetti and ignore garlic; if you do, you may have a very nice dish of spaghetti, but it won't be Italian spaghetti!

And gradually garlic found its way into the best kitchens.

I HAD a favorite recipe for baked ham, which called for a clove of garlic to be forced down next to the little flat bone on the inside of the ham and removed after the ham was roasted. After ignoring that part of the recipe for a long time I finally decided to try it, though I had sad misgivings about the matter. And never in my life did I taste anything quite so good as that ham.

Nature very obligingly assorted her cloves of garlic so that you can pull a bulb into a dozen or more cloves of varying sizes. The flavor is not released until the individual clove is peeled.

HAVING some of the flavor of a peach, and some of the flavor of a plum, and a decided flavor of its own, the apricot is one of my choice fruits. It has a sophisticated tang, and has saved many meals from being plain homespun.

For instance, there's apricot pudding, made with ½ pound dried apricots, cinnamon toast, ½ cup sugar, 1 cup meringue.

Soak the apricots overnight. Stew until tender and add the sugar. Arrange squares of cinnamon toast in the bottom and around the sides of a pudding dish. Pour in the boiling hot apricots, cover the dish so that no steam can escape and cool gradually. Chill and cover the top with meringue.

APRICOT salad is another delicacy which is prepared simply. Place sliced bananas on a bed of lettuce, and then add stewed apricots, fresh or canned, and top with whipped cream or boiled dressing.

Pot roast with apricots is a variation of any old favorite. Sear about 5 pounds of beef, chuck, or shoulder very brown in a Dutch oven, or a kettle with a tight lid. Do not add water. Put on cover and cook over low flame 2½ hours. One-half hour before the cooking is completed, add potatoes, medium in size, and peeled.

After washing the apricots thoroughly, soak them overnight; in the morning cook without sugar in the water in which they were soaked. When they are almost done, but still firm, remove from the fire, drain them well, roll in flour and saute in butter, until a delicate brown. Use hot with the meat, allowing three apricot halves for each serving.

EGGLESS MAYONNAISE—Combine ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ tablespoon mustard, paprika, and stir in 3 tablespoons slightly sour cream. Add ½ cup salad oil a little at a time and when thick add a little more rapidly. Stir in 2½ tablespoons vinegar gradually and beat well.

Your grocer has it—Free

a brand new idea in colored glass cake plates with the purchase of two packages of Pillsbury's Cake Flour

A million women now use this remarkable new cake flour!

In one short year, over a million women have chosen Pillsbury's Cake Flour and found themselves baking cakes that were distinctly better than anything they had been able to produce before!

Baking tests show that Pillsbury's Cake Flour possesses three distinct superiorities: (1) It makes a cake that rises higher—a lighter, fluffier, more delicate cake. (2) It makes a cake with a softer, finer texture. (3) It makes a cake that stays moist and fresh longer.

If you haven't tried Pillsbury's Cake Flour, do so now—we believe you'll enjoy a real thrill. Test it thoroughly—try it with the most difficult, delicate recipes you know—before you have finished the first package you'll be convinced that here at last is the perfect cake flour!

Pillsbury's Cake Flour

An entirely new idea in cake plates—practical as well as beautiful. It stands up from the table on three little legs—you can slip your fingers under the edge, and carry your cake without touching the frosting. Also, it is perfectly flat on top—your cake cannot sag in the middle, as it sometimes does when placed on an ordinary curved plate. It is made of delicately colored glass, in a graceful, attractive design. The top carries a beautifully traced figure, worked out in light lines. It is extremely ornamental—and just as practical as it is good-looking. Your grocer will give you one free with the purchase of two packages of Pillsbury's Cake Flour.

GUILD TO PUT SHAW IN NIXON

Subscription sales for the Nixon Theater production of the Theatre Guild subscription season in Pittsburgh, Bernard Shaw's satirical comedy of English manners, "Pygmalion," the first production of the season, will open Monday, December 2, with Frieda Inescort, Elliot Cabot, Percy Waram, Jane Wheatley, Phyllis Connard, Ethel Kease, Winifred Harris, Dudley Digges, Geoffrey Harwood, Ray Roberts, Isidore Mayo, Marion Wells, Margaret Miller and Jack Quigley.

George Schuch's play, The Leper, which was to be the Charles Sharp Players' opening bill this week is the only play of the season thus far announced by the Pittsburgh organization. It was produced in Washington two years ago at Heath Seabolt's home. An audience of 300, including five senators and 50 members of congress, besides many military and naval officials.

"Pygmalion" shaw's revue current at the Alvin will end its engagement with a performance Saturday night. There will be a matinee tomorrow also.

With Guild

Elliot Cabot will be seen in the Nixon next week in the Theater Guild production, "Pygmalion."

O'Neill Satire Special Nixon Matinee

Marco Millions," Eugene O'Neill's satire of the Nature of Money, which opened at the Nixon Monday night, will be given a special matinee performance next week at the Theatre Guild series' first matinee. Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne will play the principal characters of a Babbitt-like tycoon, the hero and the philosophy of the East, who seeks opportunities for exploitation in the Orient. Even his marriage is such can be called that—is a business affair. Though somewhat like 20 years in the Orient, Marco has left an Active. He looks into the eyes of a beautiful princess and Cathay seems to them the light of love for him. It is all very matter of fact to him, just as dollars are.

Members of the Guild company presenting "R. U. R." as the regular attraction in the Nixon were seen in the play, Earl Larimore as Marco Polo, Sydney Greenstreet as Kublai Kann, Sylvia Field as the princess, with numerous others in supporting parts.

"LADY IN ERMINE" BECOMES "PRIDE OF REGIMENT" AS TITLE CHANGES

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Dorothy Herzog.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29.—OVER on the First National lot, the powers that be have already changed the name of "The Lady in Ermine" to "Bride of the Regiment," Vivian Seegal is evidently the female part of the title, with Walter Pidgeon among those carring for the latter part.

T'other morn, a test was made of Vivian and Walter and rushed over to the laboratory to be developed.

Hours passed. No developed test from the laboratory. Director John Francis Dillon sent an assistant to telephone how come.

"Where's that Pidgeon Test?" the assistant barked into the mouthpiece.

"We haven't got any bird tests here" shouted back the lab man.

That's the way it goes.

"Look at us," instructs Vivian. "Pidgeon." Seegal "Seegull," and Billie Dove! Birds."

King Vidor

King Vidor, director of "Hallelujah" and Marion Davies' last talky, "Duley," is preparing to put Peter Kyne's popular story, "Billy, the Kid," into production. Hear tell George ("Godless Girl") Duryea may play the title.

Hear tell Kay "Dynamite" Johnson is taking vocal lessons and devoting herself strenuously to warbling. Reason: Cecil De Mille wants her to heroine in his forthcoming operetta. Swell part, if Kay lands it.

Edna Murphy has returned from a jaunt to New York. She and Husband Mervyn Leroy are living at Malibu Beach and the weather has been so darn balmy they've gotten their money's worth out of the Pacific. Mervyn says it's a good thing Edna is home. Those long distance phone calls are tough on the monthly bill. "For $14.87," says Mervyn, "you say: 'Hello. I can't hear you. Goodbye.'" Since her return, Edna received a voodvil offer, but refused the two-a-day chance.

The Rupert Hughes' depart the town for good next Monday. They will make their home in New York. Hughes recently built a sumptuous home here, which he now has for sale. Also, en passant, his latest novel, "Ladies Man," running serially in the Cosmopolitan Magazine, has been purchased by Famous Players.

Camilla Going To Hollywood

WORD comes direct from Camilla Horn that she intends to return to Hollywood. Why, when or wherefore not explained. Camilla is vacationing in Italy at this penning, having recently finished two German talkies for Warner Bros., one with Conrad Veidt. Shortly before departing Flickburg, Camilla purchased a Packard limousine and took it back to the Vaterland. She also took it to Italy and, according to her, she's making one big splash in the eye-country with it! Incidentally, didst see in the a. m. papers that the Horn fraulein is divorcing her husband? He spent last Christmas with her in Hollywood and fidelity seemed to be

Woman Pursues Vicious Collie 355 Miles

KEARNY, N. J., Nov. 29.—(AP.)—No dog is going to bite Mrs. Arthur Piper, of Duncansville, Pa., and get away with it. A collie from a passing automobile ran to her porch. She tatted and the collie snapped. She ran indoors, the collie ran to the car. She took down the license number and telephoned to Trenton, capital of New Jersey, to learn the owner. Then she got out her car and drove 355 miles to Kearny in eight and one-half hours.

With a policeman she went to the residence of the dog's owner, demanding that the animal be shot. The officer had it examined by a veterinary, who pronounced the animal healthy and refused to shoot. The collie once belonged to Commander Evangeline Booth, of the Salvation Army, who gave it away.

He also carried James King, 11, and his brothers, George, 8, and John, 6, from their quarters on the same floor. The fire originated on the second floor of the three-story dwelling from an undetermined cause.

PARKINSON PITT'S HERO

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Pitt Wins Eastern Title.
Late Drive Beats State.
Game Fight by Lions.
Clean Slate for Dukes.
Death of Old Oarsman.
Tartans Get Revenge.

PARKINSON AT PEAK IN FAREWELL

ALL hail to the Pitt Panthers, football champions of the East and qualified for fully as much consideration as any rival in the award of the mythical national championship. By defeating Penn State yesterday, 20 to 7, for the eighth time in succession, with Tom Parkinson starring, the Blue and Gold warriors registered their ninth straight victory of 1929, completed without a reverse or a tie one of the greatest seasons in the history of the university, and earned a ranking abreast of the most powerful teams ever developed here or anywhere else.

Tom Parkinson

That they were left trailing by one point at the end of the first half, were forced to come from behind to win for the first time this year—whereas the dope had said they would win in a canter—and won out only by their tremendous driving power in the second half, only showed more impressively than ever the strength of Dr. Sutherland's charges. They were off stride at first, and their interference failed to function as smoothly as usual against Penn State's unexpectedly strong and alert defense, but once they got going there was no stopping them and their two smashing marches down the field in the second half showed again that this year's team was greatest when hardest pressed.

ANOTHER thing that the triumph made clear to those who had not observed the fact before was that Pitt's 1929 team was not an outfit that depended for success upon one or two players. When one star failed he merely opened the way for another to step into his place.

Thus it came that when faulty interference and State's clever covering of Toby Uansa prevented the McKees Rocks terror from getting away for his usual long runs, Tom Parkinson, with the kicking added to his duties proceeded to play his greatest game in his farewell local appearance and to perform like the well-qualified all-America candidate he is. The mere statement that Parkinson scored every point made by Pitt in the game tells in brief the story of Parkinson's greatness in what was his final college game, on the home field at least.

BUT Parkinson did not turn the trick unaided. He had a great line and some other sterling backs in there working with him, and once the Pitt gridders found themselves after their lapses in the face of State's display of unexpected strength and speed in the first half the whole combination worked like a perfect machine. It was a team victory, with every man doing his full share.

Cooper French

And at that, Pitt did not get all the glory. Even in defeat, Penn State earned a lot of credit. It isn't the easiest thing in the world to find yourself going into a game in which you are supposed to be beaten before the start, against a team that has licked you seven times in a row and played you to a draw twice in nine consecutive meetings, and against which you haven't even scored in two seasons.

BUT the Center County boys showed the stuff of which they are made by ignoring all that discouraging dope and plunging into the dope as if they were meeting merely an ordinary opponent. In the first half they made a better showing against Pitt than any other team that tackled the Panthers this year, and for a time they had the Blue and Gold rooters worriedly speculating about the outcome for the only time in the 1929 campaign. Cooper French, Neil Stahley, Calvin Shawley, Frank Diedrich and their mates gave a splendid exhibition of football, and the fact that their efforts failed to avert defeat detracts in no wise from the credit due them for their game stand. The brilliant work of Stahley, Edwards and Kaplan at the ends was a tribute to Bob Higgins' coaching. The Penn State team that had been rated as not having a chance in the world made a far better showing than some other Mt. Nittany elevens that have come here in other years much more highly touted.

WHILE Pitt was completing an undefeated season and sewing up the Eastern championship by defeating Penn State here, following the similar success of Duquesne University in concluding their schedule without a defeat Wednesday night, Carnegie Tech, in another part of the country yesterday afternoon, was also drawing attention to the high class of Pittsburgh's collegiate football and winning additional laurels for this city by downing New York University in Gotham by the decisive score of 20 to 0. It was the first time Carnegie ever defeated N. Y. U. and brought sweet revenge for last year's 27-to-13 reverse.

The Tartans' victory was creditable to the forces of Steffen and Waddell and all the more pleasing to local fans because the odds had appeared to be against the Plaid and even the most ardent adherents of the Schenley Park eleven had been none too confident of the outcome.

Murray Armentrout

THE Violet had previously been beaten by Fordham and Georgetown, but it had defeated Penn State, Georgia, Missouri, Rutgers, Butler, West Virginia Wesleyan and Vermont. That record attests that it required top-notch football on the part of Armentrout, Karcis, McCurdy, Flanagan and the rest of the Tartans to vanquish the New Yorkers.

The triumph made it a good season for Carnegie in spite of the Pitt and Notre Dame defeats and the Wash-Jeff tie, and assuring that Southern California will have a real battle on its hands when it meets the Plaid in Los Angeles two weeks from tomorrow.

DUQUESNE'S answer to intimations that they had been merely lucky in nosing out the Haskell Indians in the final two minutes of play last Saturday was to come right back with another Garrison finish on Wednesday night, when they brought their greatest season to a close without a defeat by winning over Waynesburg's strong eleven, 14 to 7, in the closing stages. The fact that it was the Dukes' second tough game in five days, and that for the sixth time in two seasons and the fifth time this year they won out at practically the last minute showed the remarkable durability and fighting qualities of the team, and proved that their great finishes have not been due merely to fortunate breaks. In 10 games this year, the Bluff boys won nine and tied one. As the draw was with such a major foe as West Virginia it was in reality a moral victory. They scored 156 points to 59 for their opponents. Elmer Layden surely has them surging toward the front rank fast. Incidentally, Father Pitt may well stick out his chest over having two undefeated teams in one season.

IN the death of John Teemer, formerly of McKeesport, at Lorain, O., yesterday, one of the most prominent figures in the old days of

TECH'S AERIAL GAME BEATS VIOLETS

By JESS CARVER.
Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Icy blasts that swept into the Yankee Stadium here yesterday afternoon failed to cool the fire of a hard-hitting, tricky and air-minded Carnegie Tech football team, which rose to the heights it has been trying to scale all season and pasted New York University's husky Violet varsity, 20-0.

The victory of the Plaid arms yesterday was Tech's first over New York, ending the three-year reign of the Nieu Yawkers over the Pittsburgh Engineers. The defeat of the local forces was nothing new in the way of a holiday occurrence, for New York University has yet to win a Thanksgiving Day football game.

TECH SPARKLES

And, strangely enough, so does Mr. John F. (Chick) Meehan, the dapper little mentor of the Violet squad.

There were several outstanding features connected with the victory of the Steffen-Waddell machine yesterday, chief of which was the success of the offensive and bewildering accuracy of the aerial game. Tech crossed the Violets from P to X, opening the action with a rain of forward passes, where New York was expecting power plays, turning to its running attack during the middle portions of the game and shifting back to a pass attack later on.

New York was hopelessly outclassed. With the exception of a few minutes after the first kick-off, and a march of 73 yards in the second half, which crashed on the rocks of the stubborn and intelligent Tech defense on the seven-yard mark, Mr. Meehan's boys were seldom in the ball game.

Tech hasn't functioned as it did against New York yesterday all season. To my way of thinking, the sterling play of the Tartan ends, John English and Latham Flanagan, in rendering absolutely null and void New York's off-tackle and end-running attack, and in their clever handling of the ball on forward passes, was one of the greatest, if not the greatest, contributing factor of Tech's success.

M'CURDY AT TOP

Harry McCurdy out-generaled the entire New York aggregation, players, coaches and all. He mixed up his plays well, and his mechanical play was excellent. He propelled his passes with wonderful accuracy, and he ran the ball himself in splendid fashion.

Fumbles, costly ones, brought trouble for the Violets in the first period when Tech scored two touchdowns. Tech obtained possession of the ball three times in the first period when butter-fingered New York backs fumbled and alert Skibo linemen recovered. Two of these miscues were turned into scores. On both occasions, McCurdy flung the passes that resulted in touchdowns, Eyth catching the first and twisting over the goal and Pete Flanagan taking the second almost on the line where it needed but a step or two of his long legs to get across. On both plays, Tech was inside the 20-yard line.

Dave Myers, New York's vaunted Negro star, converted from a guard to a halfback, who has been doing some high, wide and handsome ball-carrying all year, was effectively bottled up by the Skibo defense. New York's field generals did not attempt to run Myers wide very often. I think he was sent outside the tackles about three times in all. But when he did, he was nailed before he had a chance to get under way. For the most part he was sent crashing into the tackles, figuring to cut back or break clear. Messrs. Highberger and Pete Flanagan, on the left, and Bob Schmidt and English, on the right, handled him very well indeed.

NOT ENOUGH POWER

Once in a while New York's offense would click, and Lamark or Myers would find a hole between the Tech tackles and plunge through for some important yardage, or Gaudet or Grant would heave a pass that Nemeck or Bela got their hands on, but they simply could not sustain these sporadic efforts long enough to ring the scoring bell.

The final Tartan score, which was aided by a successful pass or

The Duquesne University football eleven kept its record for the season clean when it came from behind to score a 14-7 victory over the Waynesburg College team in its final game at Forbes Field, Wednesday night.

The Dukes scored on a safety when Capt. Sammy Smith, of the visitors, was thrown back across his own goal line as he picked up a bad pass on the one-yard line late in the second quarter for the only points of the first half. The tally came late in the second period.

JACKETS TAKE LEAD

Waynesburg went ahead, 7-2, when Lufrano, the end, intercepted a forward pass at the beginning of the final period and broke away to the Dukes' 35-yard line. On the next play, Fortney threw a pass to Lufrano, who received it on the 15-yard line and got away for the first touchdown. A forward pass, Fortney to Lufrano, converted the extra point.

In the desperate drive of the Dukes to get back into the running that followed, Capt. Buff Donnelli playing his final game for the Dukes, starred as he ripped and slashed his way to two touchdowns before the final whistle blew. Taking the kick-off on their 35-yard line, the Dukes speedily worked the ball up the field and Donnelli finally broke away from the 16-yard line for the locals' first touchdown.

PLAY ON HEAVY FIELD

An exchange of punts followed the next kickoff and the Dukes got the ball on the Waynesburg 19-yard line when an ineligible Jacket player received a forward pass. On the second play thereafter, Donnelli fought his way to the one-foot line and then went over. The game ended on the first

MOUNTAINEERS 6-0 VICTORS OVER W. & J.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 29.—A driving snow and a chilly breeze failed to daunt 15,000 fans here yesterday, and they saw the fighting Mountaineer grid machine of West Virginia University rise from the under-dog position with a sensational brand of football to trounce the Wash-Jeff Presidents, 6-0, on a soggy yet half-frozen field.

The Mountaineers were returned the victors through the sensational punting of Eddie Bartrug. The touchdown was scored soon after the first quarter opened when Maury Rush, the Presidents' safety man, fumbled a punt and Nelson Lang, Mountaineer end, recovered on the W. & J. 16-yard line.

On the first play the Presidents drew a five-yard penalty for offside, and the Mountaineers capitalized this into a first down on three plays, and two tries later Francis (Tarzan) Glenn, fullback, plunged over from the one-yard line for the only score of the game.

W. & J. had only one scoring opportunity, whereas the Mountaineers threatened three times after they tallied what proved to be the winning touchdown. The Presidents' scoring opportunity came when they blocked one of Bartrug's punts and recovered on the West Virginia 28-yard line. Captain Little Sleepy Glenn, who played one of the best games of his career, broke up the rally when he intercepted a pass on the first play thereafter. The line-up:

UNDEFEATED TEAMS WIN

Clairton, Greensburg and Rochester High School elevens strengthened their bids for the W. P. I. A. I. crown, and at the same time kept their undefeated records unmarred yesterday when they came through with victories.

In copping the Monongahela Valley championship, Clairton walloped McKeesport High, 13 to 0, before a crowd of 8,000. Stilley, Clairton halfback, played the star role.

Ted Brinkley led Greensburg High to a 31-7 triumph over Norwin in their game on the victor's field. Brinkley scored five touchdowns.

Beaver was shut out by Rochester High, 25 to 0, in their game on the latter's gridiron. Zaneski and Shaw were the stars. The lineups:

Feature Plays in Pitt's 20-7 Victory Over Penn State

PARKINSON'S FINAL TOUCHDOWN

Fullback Tom Parkinson was the hero of Pitt's 20-7 victory over Penn State at The Stadium yesterday. He scored all of his team's points with three touchdowns and two touchdown goals. Above is his final touchdown, in the last period.

HERO ON LONG RUN

Here we have Parkinson on a 30-yard break through the center of the line in the second quarter. He varied his line-bucking with several of these dashes for good-sized gains. French made the tackle on the above play.

STATE SCORES ON FORWARD PASS

Stahley, Penn State end, catching a forward pass from Quarterback French for the touchdown that put the Nittany Lions ahead, 7-6, in the second period and handed the Panthers a scare. Uansa, Pitt's safety man, was the only player who had a chance to break up the play and the pooto shows how well Stahley eluded him with the goal line just ahead.

Sun-Tele Drivers Win Grid Battle

The Sun-Tele drivers defeated the Press drivers in their second annual football game on the Duquesne University gridiron yesterday morning, 7 to 0.

Grates carried the winning touchdown over from the seven-yard line in the last quarter after straight football had advanced the ball from the Sun-Tele's 40-yard line.

Last year the same teams battled to a 6-6 deadlock.

it's the blend—
and the

Camels have always welcomed comparison with any other cigarette because the true test of value is the pleasure to be found in smoking.

The most important thing for smokers to know is that genuine cigarette quality must begin with the selection of tobaccos. Nothing can take the place of quality tobacco. Thus the extraordinary goodness of Camels begins with the choicest tobaccos grown and these are blended with expert skill to achieve the mildness and surpassing fragrance of this great cigarette. It is this genuineness of quality which smokers appreciate when they have passed the experimental stage and know real smoking pleasure.

MONESSEN SETS DOWN SMILERS, 6 TO 0

WEST VIEW, BURNS GAME CALLED OFF

By TOM BIRKS

King Winter put a crimp into the activities of the independent gridiron teams on Turkday Day. The two big battles, West View at Burns and McChesneytown at Hope-Harvey Majestics were called off, but in a tilt between the other members of the big three, Monessen Olympics defeated the Pleasant Valley Smilers 6 to 0.

Manager Art Rooney called off the Majestic tilt bright and early, but West View travelled to Burns to meet Goldberg's team, only to have the game cancelled. Of course, there are arguments on both sides. Manager Smith had a clause in the contract giving him until noon to call the game for weather conditions, but another clause required Manager Muzzio to be in New Kensington with the tickets at the same hour.

Manager Smith called Muzzio at 11 a. m. to call off the game, but the West View man already had left for the Aluminum town.

Some efforts were made to try and get the game played with a cut in the contract, but Muzzio refused that. And finally the West View team left without its travelling expenses.

Of course, Manager Smith probably will adjust that matter with Muzzio, but in the future it might be advisable to have a 10 o'clock dead line in all contracts to call off a game.

The only score in the Monessen game came in the third period when Bull McCleary scored for Jack Mier's club. The bitter cold kept down the attendance.

BASKETBALL RULES QUIZ

PLAY NO. 4

Craig, of Missouri, shoots for the backboard while out of bounds and the ball goes through the hoop into the basket.

What is the correct answer?

ANSWER

The goal does not count and the ball is taken to the center of the floor for the toss. If the goal had been missed the ball would have been in play, there being no penalty on such a play other than related.

MOORE, PENN STATE WIN

BERWICK, Pa., Nov. 29.—(AP.)—Pennsylvania collegians showed their winged heels to the fleetest middle-distance runners of the East and Canada yesterday, to finish first and second in the twentieth annual Berwick marathon.

Gus Moore, University of Pittsburgh star, a resident of Brooklyn, led the finishers with a time of 49 minutes 42½ seconds, finishing 125 yards ahead of Richard Detwiler, of Pennsylvania State College, who won second prize and the Pennsylvania prize as well.

MALCO-ROBERTS CLASH TONIGHT AT MOOSE

Tom Malco, of Soho, gets his big chance tonight to step into the limelight as one of Pittsburgh's leading boxers. He meets Hans Roberts, the German welterweight sensation, and a favorite with the fans, in the 10-round main event at the Moose Temple, his first start as a windup fighter.

Malco has not had worse than a draw in his last 17 starts and he hopes to add the German buzzsaw to his list of victims. A stocky athlete, he is a solid puncher and may prove the exact type to beat the energetic Hans, who has won all of his bouts since he came around here, including Young Rudy and Dominick Profio among those whose scalps dangle from his belt. All of his local battling has been done in the ring in which he performs tonight.

The second capacity house of the season is in prospect for Promoter Francis Flynn. Roberts has established himself as a card and the entire Soho district will turn out to see its first mainbout fighter in years do his stuff.

Young Corsey, of Canton, and Ken Hargraves, of New Kensington, featherweights, box the semifinal; Gus Keiser, of Cumberland, brother of Fay Kaiser, the former light-heavyweight boxer, who met 'em all, opposes Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, in the second bout and Zivic Anthony and Monte Sirko open the show.

McTIERNAN VS. SOLMEN

Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, and Mickey Solmen, will be the main-bouters at the Moose Club next Friday night. Their battle there last season still is vividly recalled. It marked the beginning of McTiernan's rise to the heights. He floored Solmen in an early round and then stopped him in the tenth and scheduled final frame. Solmen took a rest after this bout and since his return to the ring has compiled a fine list of victories, most of them by the knockout route, and has been clamoring for another shot at McTiernan.

After almost a week of scouring the country for an opponent for Tommy Freeman, of Erie, in its main bout next Monday night, the Motor Square Garden Club finally has come up with Jack Manley, of Wilkes-Barre, a youngster who claims victories over Bucky Lawless, Canada Lee, Young Ketchel, Gorilla Jones and Marty Collins, among others. On Tuesday, the Garden closed for the services of Joe Reno, of Trenton, N. J., a veteran who has boxed many of the stars, but the same night Reno canceled and Manley then was signed. Freeman is a tough bird to match. Most of the leaders in the division are giving him a wide berth and they come up with plenty of original excuses when they are asked to take him on.

Between Rounds

Allen Beatty, McKeesport Negro, will box Billy Edwards, of Erie, in the eight-round semi-final of Monday night's show. Andy Andrucci, of the East End, is in with Frankie Moran, of Homewood, in the second bout, and Paul Ballint and Red Hartley, both of the North Side, will box the first event.

Vincent Hambright, of Cincinnati, who knocked out Tug Phillips in the first round at Cincinnati Tuesday night, was one of the men asked to box Tommy Freeman here next Monday night, but declined the issue with thanks.

Phillips, by the way, is slated for a return bout with Joe Trippe, of Rochester, N. Y., in the McKeesport ring next Thursday night. Whether or not the match will be allowed to stand, in view of Phillips' knockout by Hambright, will be decided today by Promoter Jim McGirr. Trippe stopped Phillips in five rounds at McKeesport October 30, but Tug was on his feet at the count of 10 and claimed he had received a fast count. He had all the better of the early rounds.

Tommy Freeman meets Canada Lee at Erie Friday night of next week.

Jackie Hazel, of the Pittsburgh Lyceum, will box Joe Gaudy, of the Duke O'Hara Club, of McKeesport, and Lincoln Page, of the Superior Club, will meet Tony Basson in two of the bouts on the amateur card of the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. in St. Andrew's Lyceum, North Side, next Tuesday night.

BELMONT TO BOX COOPER

The Motor Square Club has virtually closed a match between Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, and Farmer Joe Cooper, of Terre Haute, as its windup one week from next Monday night.

Dick Ramies, Mexican star, boxes Paul Pirrone at Cleveland December 9.

Jack Zivic, through his manager, Luke Carney, is in receipt of an offer from Jim Downing, matchmaker for the Miami Beach Kennel Club arena in Florida, to box Jackie Fields, the welterweight champion, January 31. Sammy Mandell and Manuel Quintero box for the same club January 10. Zivic is continuing in training and is after a return bout with Tiger Joe Randall, who won a decision over him at Motor Square Garden last Monday night.

Duke Harriers Fail To Show Up at W. Va.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 29.—(AP.)—West Virginia University today claimed the tri-state cross-country championship as a result of the failure of Duquesne University to appear yesterday for a scheduled run in connection with the Mountaineer-W. & J. football game here.

professional rowing in this country passed out. Forty years ago and more, Teemer ranked with the greatest oarsmen in the world, and only the Ed Hanlan, the acknowledged king of scullers, stood between him and the championship of the world.

Those were the days that boasted, in addition to Hanlan and Teemer, such star scullers, as Jake Gaudaur, Eph Morris, Jim Riley, Pat Luther, Hamm, Hosmer and many others. The professional rowing game flourished in this section then, as well as in other parts of America and in England and Canada, many races being decided on the old Hulton course. Teemer was one of the greats, and won many big contests hereabouts. One that was followed by a long controversy was between Teemer and Gaudaur on the Monongahela River, in which Hamm was accused of fouling by rowing a boat out from the side and ramming Teemer's scull when the McKeesporter was leading.

WINTER horse racing is under way. The turf sport is one game that doesn't die out as the seasons change. The winter season was officially opened yesterday at the Jefferson Park track in New Orleans, and during the cold months there will be a vying for patronage over an area extending from Havana, Cuba, to Agua Caliente, Mexico.

Each center has particular features of its own to beckon the travelers, and it is predicted that more tourists will visit the various tracks this winter than ever before. The late fall session at the Bowie course in Maryland, which has been in progress since November 18, will close tomorrow, and then the horses will be shipped to the different winter tracks.

THE meeting opened yesterday at Jefferson Park in New Orleans will continue until December 1, after which the horses will be transferred to the Fair Grounds track in the same city for 54 days more of racing. At both Havana and Keeney Park, the latter located near St. Augustine, Fla., the start will be made on December 14. There will be 90 days of racing in Havana, but the Keeney Park meeting will last for only 27 racing days, or until January 14. Agua Caliente, which means "hot water" in Spanish, will open on December 28 and run for more than 80 days. At Miami, Fla., the winter meeting will start on January 16 and continue to March 8.

TECH WALLOPS VIOLETS

two, was largely the result of Murray Armentrout's sensational ball-carrying. Armentrout ran with both speed and power, a dangerous combination, and it was his driving, once he struck, or was struck by, the New York secondary defense, that punched the ball to the three-yard mark. From this point Joe Morbito, playing fullback in the place of Johnny Karcis, bucked it over.

Morbito played the first, second and most of the fourth periods. Karcis was inserted into the line at the start of the second half, and while in there, gave his best exhibition of the year, both offensively and defensively.

Nemecek, right end, was the outstanding figure for New York. He shone with particular brilliance on the defense, being about the only New York lineman who appeared to know what it was all about.

STAR BACK INJURED

New York suffered a tough blow in the first period when Follett, the halfback star, had his knee smashed up. He was taken from the game and rushed to the French Hospital.

Carnegie rooters, and there were plenty of 'em on hand, staged a wild scene after the game. They swept onto the field, ripped down the wooden goal posts and from them built a bon fire right in the middle of the gridiron. Then they put on a war dance. The New York police took this display of collegiate enthusiasm very good naturedly, and made no effort to break up the Tech whoopee party.

To give this article a bit of a technical ending, it might be written that Tech tried 28 passes, completing 14 for a total gain of 231 yards; rolled up 18 first downs to 10 for New York; recovered six of the seven New York fumbles and generally kicked Mr. Meehan's ambitious Violets all over the lot.

HUB SIX HERE TOMORROW

Manager Frank Frederickson put his Pirate icemen through a stiff workout at Duquesne Garden this afternoon in preparation for their game with the world champion Boston Bruins here tomorrow night.

The Bucs' defense, which permitted Les Canadiens to break through for nine goals in Montreal Tuesday, was the department upon which Frederickson concentrated his improvement efforts in the drill. The Pirtes' offense compares favorably with that of any other club in the National League, but spotty defensive play has resulted in the locals winning only one of their first four games.

PARKINSON HERO IN PITT VICTORY

ging return to the State 47-yard line, after making the catch behind the goal line, but State shortly had to kick and the quarter ended after a few more plays with Pitt in possession of the ball on its own 28-yard line.

PASS BRINGS SCORE

After carrying the ball to the State 42-yard line early in the second period, Pitt, with a yard to make on final down, declined to kick, and, instead, with a contempt for the danger of letting its opponent take the ball on downs at that point, tossed it away on a haphazard attempt at forward pass. From this point State, coming suddenly to life, drove to its only touchdown and threw a scare into the ranks of the Panthers.

First French galloped through the line for four yards and then he took a pass from Diedrich for a 12-yard gain and first down on the Pitt 38-yard line. Diedrich smacked the line for four yards and French for three and Diedrich for five more and another first down on the 26 and Pitt took time out to rally its forces. On the next play, French gained two yards and then was stopped without a gain and then a pass, French to Diedrich, was knocked down. On final down, with eight yards to go, French coolly tossed a long pass to Stahley, the fine end, who made the catch inside the two-yard line, with Uansa reaching for him, and stepped nimbly behind the goal. On Diedrich's try-for-point, the ball hit the upright, but followed through to cross the bar for a goal and State was ahead 7 to 6. It took Pitt some time to get its bearings after that, but just before the half ended the Panthers regained a punt on their own 22-yard line and, with the assistance of a 30-yard break through the middle of the line by Parkinson, carried play to the State 41 before the call of time.

PANTHERS REGAIN STRIDE

Pitt looked like a new team as it stepped out with a do-or-die spirit for the second half and speedily resumed control of the situation to such an extent that thereafter State only once, late in the third period, was able to invade its territory and then on a 20-yard run by French which enabled the Lions to penetrate to the 41-yard line before they had to punt.

Pitt almost scored a touchdown early in the third period when Uansa threw a forward pass to Collins, the end, who dropped it from his numbed fingers with a clear field to a touchdown before him. On final down, Parkinson punted over the goal line and State worked its way out of this pocket through two fine runs by Diedrich and French, finally punting out of bounds on the Pitt 16-yard line, from which point the drive for Pitt's second touchdown began.

The Panthers ate up the 84 yards in 16 plays, on 11 of which Parkinson carried the ball. He also carried it on the last six plays, from the 29-yard line, and on eight of the last 10 plays, a titantic performance. State was unable to stop his driving power despite the insertion of fresh players into its forward line when the touchdown was imminent. The third quarter ended after the next kickoff, so that the issue was in doubt, with State in the lead, almost up to the beginning of the final period.

A 33-yard run by Uansa early in the fourth quarter put Pitt on the 21-yard line and in scoring position again. Six plays brought the final touchdown, with Parkinson carrying the ball on four of them.

REGULARS STAY IN

Pitt's final threat came shortly afterward, when it lugged the ball 43 yards to the 13-yard line before Baker's forward pass to Uansa over the goal line on final down failed.

Some idea of the manner in which Pitt ultimately outplayed State, despite the closeness of the score and the fact that it was on the short end so long, may be gained from the fact that the Panthers made 22 first downs in the game, one of them on a penalty, while State made a total of only seven. And, considering the fact that Pitt tried only three passes, none of which was completed, and Uansa and Walinchus were being well covered and got away only occasionally for sizable gains, and Quarterback Baker didn't carry the ball at all, the whale of a game that Mr. Parkinson played may be duly appreciated.

Pitt kept its regular backfield intact throughout and made only two substitutions on the line, Collins relieving Hirshberg, who started at right end, and Quatsie going in for Tulley at left tackle, in the fourth period. It was a tough ball game, and the reserves merely sat it out and shivered with the other spectators.

Miss Pat by Elenore Meherin

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Mary Patricia Dawn, young and beautiful, is in love with Guy Elliott, handsome aviator. Guy is perfecting a plane which old William Bryce is to manufacture. Pat meets Bryce's widowed daughter-in-law and wonders if Guy is intrigued by Barbara's beauty. Bryce sends Tom Burns, a workman, to jail for attempted robbery. Pat has gay times with Lee Templeton, young college student. Pat's father is stricken with pneumonia and dies. The family considers giving up the big house because of the heavy expense.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XX.

GUY was deep in his black thoughts when a warm, husky voice came lilting across the room. "We've been reading about you. Congratulations!" With a smile in her dark, beautiful eyes, Barbara Bryce came and leaned on Guy's table. She had the little lad, Billy, with her, and she now warned gaily: "Don't let your dog bite my child. He's precious."

"So's my canine."

"Well, you're not," challenged the tiny boy, shoving against Guy's knees. "You're wicked!"

"I am not!"

"Yes, you are. You tell lies. You said you'd take me for a ride in your airplane, and you didn't do it."

"You didn't come around."

"Well, she wouldn't brang me!"

"Not brang, Billy. Say 'bring me.' That's the only mistake he ever makes."

Guy roared. "I dare say! Only one perfect child ever born and every mother has him." He picked up a stick and threw it along the floor. "Fetch it, Jim. Now you throw it, Billy. And you tell your mother that I'll give you the ride whenever she'll brang you."

Billy chuckled. "I will, all right. If I put my hand in Jim's mouth, then what?"

"It will get wet."

"Oh, I see—just get wet. You won't bite, will you, Jim?"

Barbara cupped her chin in her palm and asked dreamily: "What will you do when your dreamplane is a thrilling success? Shall you take any great flights? Oh, how I'd like to do that!"

"Alone, Barbara?"

Color swept to her soft, gold hair. Even her eyes flushed. She said, in a high, happy tone, I've not planned all the details. And you, Guy?"

"It will be long before I'm free for such an adventure. We're making no progress."

"Oh, don't be disheartened. Every year won't be like this. You've been delayed, of course—that break in the market and now the slump in real estate. . . ."

She spoke as though everyone in the world knew that millions had been lost—even that Bryce himself was hard pressed.

"Yes," said Guy, concealing his hot excitement.

"But father tells me the stock will be booming in a few months. He expects the market to pick up. You'll forget there was such a thing as a June crash. Then you can have your adventure." She put her exquisite and slender hand in his, adding with a wistful, penetrant sweetness: "And for you, Guy, it won't be a lonely adventure, will it?"

"How may one know?"

She lowered her head quickly, making a pretense of taking the child's arm. She answered irrelevantly, and with a catchy laugh: "At any rate you mustn't let the dog lure my son from me."

He went with her to the door. Afterwards he remembered with terrible bitterness the call he had seen in Barbara's eyes.

But in the hours after that brief visit, he was aware only of storming unrest. Nancy's withering news was true. Bryce was in a jam. His daughter-in-law very casually admitted the facts. So nothing would be done with the plane for the present. Months—even years might pass in unproductive waiting. Guy recalled the trust in a pair of glowing emerald eyes laughing up to his in the moonlight. He gathered blueprints into a bundle and slammed the drawer on them.

That evening he stood in the Dawn kitchen helping Pat get the dinner.

Pat lifted a spoon from a saucepan. With a smirk of satisfaction she tasted gravy she was making. "Hmm, delicious! It's a nifty cook you're acquiring, lad. But what did Bryce say? Was he very excited about the notice?"

Finally, because she was very insistent, Guy told her of Bryce's absence; of the halting of production; of his colossal losses in the stock market.

Neither of them saw Laura. She entered from the patio. She stood at the door quietly removing her hat and gloves. She ran a hand slowly over her rich, warm mass of auburn hair. She leaned there abnormally white, abnormally tense. She said with a high, unnatural gaiety: "Dinner ready? How lovely of you!"

She heard all that Guy said. And she had just come from a meeting with William Bryce. She had just handed over to him the $22,000 that remained of Richard's legacy.

Was the money safe? She put the burning question secretly to Guy. Long after midnight he was still pondering it. Surely yes! Bryce couldn't be guilty of misusing the life-savings of his dead friend.

But 2,200 shares of Crystal Power at $10 a share . . . This was the investment William Bryce suggested for Laura Dawn. In this he would put her money.

Guy repeated to himself, "Ten dollars a share—whew! Three months ago Bryce had given Guy a tip on this stock. It was then selling at 90 cents. If it had already increased 1,000 per cent, what further chance had it now in a declining market? And suppose it dropped back to 90 cents! Laura's heritage shrunk to a pittance, to $1,000!

This could easily happen. But an ugher fear came sneaking again and again into Guy's mind. Would Bryce take Laura's money to cover his own notes? Could he be so bitterly pressed that he might be driven to it? And then if he crashed?

He got up finally, utterly worn. It would be difficult to get the facts. It might already be too late to recover Laura's money.

In the morning he went to Nancy's office. A man was just leaving. Guy heard him say: "Then we can expect more margin by noon today? We simply can't carry the account any longer."

"By noon," Nancy replied. "I'll try and locate Mr. Bryce. The account is perfectly safe. He has $10,000 coming in at 4 today."

"We can't wait beyond noon."

"So it's not a song and dance you were giving me?" said Guy as the door closed. "Is the old man through?"

"Unless he can raise $40,000 before noon tomorrow. He's about as desperate as death right now. Faces the loss of his residence park. If that goes, he IS through."

"Will $40,000 save him, Nance?"

"For a day. And it gives him a chance to grab more. In the meantime one of his slumbering stocks may waken. He's banking on this."

"Nothing more tangible?"

Nancy tapped her foot. "Yes. There's his luck. It never fails. He picked off $25,000 yesterday. God knows from where. I gather that he'll foot the rest today."

For a goading hour, Guy considered the prickly situation. Bryce was holding Laura's money to meet his notes. Almost certainly, She might never regain a penny.

Yet—and Guy dwelt insistently on the chance—Bryce might have bought Crystal Power for her; he might honestly think the investment good.

He finally drove to town. He made an investigation and learned this—no sales in Crystal Power had been recorded in the past 10 days. The stock was inactive, the last sale being 50 shares at $10; previous to this 200 shares went for $6. No big block of 2,200 shares had been moved.

"No one would be insane enough for that in the present state of the market," Whitney Black, a stock broker and intimate friend of Guy's gave the information and threw in advice. "For the love of Pete, lay off that stuff, Guy. It's dynamite. It's had its rise. Nothing but pool manipulation caused it. They've had their killings. Don't be a sucker and fall for it now. The cream is all skimmed. Crystal Power is through."

Guy walked down Montgomery street, wondering in what way he could approach Bryce; by what tactics he might recover the money upon which the whole Dawn family so completely depended. With these funds gone they would be homeless; ruthlessly cleaned.

He went up to Bryce's office. The look of the man was reassuring. Bryce wore a grey suit with a little patch of violets in his buttonhole. He came forward and put an affectionate arm on Guy's shoulder. This friendliness made the interview more difficult.

Guy hated questioning the man's honor; and he was sorry for his need. Finally he launched into it. He mentioned Laura Dawn; her harassing fears now that the money was released.

"So she asked me to come," said Guy quietly, "and tell you. . . ."

"That she's changed her mind," interrupted Bryce with a laugh. "They all do it. Tell her not to worry. In eight weeks her fortune will be worth it. She's determined to withdraw—to rest content with such interest as she can get."

"Nonsense!"

They went parrying back and forth. And presently Guy knew that Bryce was utterly desperate; that he would fight almost to the death; that he would not relinquish the money.

Funny How Girls Want to Be Opposite to What They Are—Fay King

By FAY KING

FUNNY, isn't it, how few girls are satisfied with their looks—no matter how pretty they may be.

The tall and willowy blonde wishes she was a petite and peppy little brunette.

The girl with blue eyes wishes she had fiery black ones. The black-eyed Susan wishes she could bleach her eyes blue!

Tall girls want to be short girls, and short girls long to be tall, stately and dignified!

The girl with a cute little tilted nose thinks it is too small and has no character. The girl with a bigger nose is thinking of having it whittled down by a plastic surgeon!

Little girls want to be exotic vamps, and the tall sirens want to be cuties.

Olina Sulks Because She Has to Share Room With Mary

IT was Mary who threw open the door of the large room which Lillian had assigned to Dicky's niece and Princess Olina. Designed for Marion's use during her vacations, Lillian had made it comfortable for the use of two persons by taking out Marion's bookcases and study table, and putting in an extra bed and dressing table.

That the inmates were far from enjoying the rose-tinted bower which Lillian had arranged for her daughter, I saw at a glance. Princess Olina was sitting in a low chair, having made no effort whatever to unpack her bags and her eyebrows were knitted into a distinct frown. Nor was Mary's face any more cheerful.

"Do you want me, Auntie Madge?" Mary said eagerly, and I guessed that she would give much for an excuse to escape from the room for a little while.

"Yes, dear, for a few minutes."

Mary moved toward the door with alacrity, then turned toward Princess Olina.

"You don't need me for anything?" she asked hesitantly.

There was definite antagonism behind the perfunctory courtesy of the reply.

"Oh, no, indeed!" she said, and Mary hesitated no longer.

"She's been like that ever since we struck that room," she said, "although she thawed out a bit at luncheon—enough so the rest of you didn't get on to her grouch. Of course, I know what's eating her. She's never been obliged to share a room with anybody before, and she doesn't love me any too well, anyway."

"Forget all about her," I advised. "Ignore her sulkiness and keep up that sunny good humor. She'll come to her senses after a while, as she always does after these little exhibitions. We're going to talk about something far more interesting than the vagaries of a princess. I'm giving a dinner tomorrow night over in the living room of our suite. It's ostensibly a housewarming, but I'm going to make it the occasion of announcing your engagement to Prince Georges——"

"And hers to Noel, I suppose," she said with suddenly stiffened lips.

"Exactly," I returned. "And before we go on I want to warn you again that Georges must know nothing of Olina's engagement, and she must know nothing of yours until they are announced."

"I've stood pat so far," Mary said with a wry grin, "and I guess I can stand it that much longer, although her little airs of proprietorship over Noel are sure corralling my goat. But somebody must have put the kibosh on her. She hasn't said in so many words that she has the boy haltered."

"Nor she won't," I told her with finality. "Now for a real subject. What gown do you want to wear tomorrow night? I'm going to build my color scheme around you."

She hugged me ecstatically, then drew back and smiled a bit ruefully.

"Have I so many that I can't make a choice?" she asked. "My best one, of course, is that one Aunt Harriet sent me for my birthday."

I nodded. It was the gown I had had in mind, a filmy thing of honey color, with little bizarre touches of orange. With it Harriet had enclosed gold slippers and chiffon stockings of the same shade.

"Where is it now?" I asked.

"In my closet," she answered promptly. "I unpacked it the first thing."

"Bring it to me now," I directed. "You can let Olina think I'm making more room for her things. I'll hang it up in my closet. Miss Fairfax is going out to get the flowers for me, and I want her to see it before she goes. But Olina mustn't guess."

"Won't she be red-headed when she sees that the flowers go with my gown?" she said gleefully, and I did not reprove her, for in the last days at the farmhouse the spoiled young princess had given Mary many uncomfortable hours. Besides she had 20 gowns to Mary's one, and jewels such as Dicky's winsome little niece could never hope to own, unless, indeed, Mary should smother love with ambition and go on with her engagement to Prince Georges. Of course, I realized that I was being a bit catty in thus centering the spotlight on Mary. But my love for the girl, bolstered by my resentment against Philip Veritzen for the ridiculous ambition which had resulted in this troublesome "international romance," made me determined that it should be Mary's night in every respect.

"I wish you'd tell your sulky princess," I said when Mary had brought me her gown, "that a friend of ours is coming here in a few minutes, an artist whom I'd like her to meet."

With curiosity I saw resentment flame in Mary's eyes.

"I'll tell her," she said, "but if she's like me she'd rather take a birching than meet Miss Fairfax. How I hate that woman for what she's trying to —— Oh!"

She clapped her hand over her mouth like a frightened child and ran back to her room, while I went out of Lillian's suite into our own with her words echoing in my ears. Were Edith's machinations so plain that even Mary's youthful carelessness had noted them?"

The smoke caused by burning a few bread crumbs, a little sugar, or even a little newspaper, will serve as a deodorant when cooking "smelly" vegetables.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Bread and Butter Plates

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Please tell me exactly when it is correct to serve bread and butter plates. I have heard so much discussion lately as to their appropriateness. A. D.

BREAD and butter plates are usually placed at breakfast and luncheon, since butter is served at breakfast and luncheon. They are used, too, at informal or family dinners. And, indeed, they are most convenient, not only to serve butter on, but to place the bread on, and the radishes or celery, or any other details of this kind that is served.

Of course, at the most formal of dinners, bread and butter plates are not placed, but there are comparatively few of such formal dinners. The reason why they are not placed is that no butter is served at a formal dinner.

However, except at these most formal of dinners, I observe increasingly that bread and butter plates are being placed at dinner. And I, for one, am glad, for it is a relief to have a harbor for one's bread and radishes and celery and nuts. Usually, too, bread and butter plates are of an interesting pattern to combine with or match the dinner plates, and so they add another touch of loveliness to the service.

Tea-Time the Calling Hour

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am a man, and I have been entertained at various homes here. I want to know if I may call on my hostesses in the daytime. Then, too, I want to know if I should telephone before I go to make a call. Thank you for telling me the answers to both questions.

MERE MAN.

TEA-TIME is the hour when most men make their calls, and tea-time on Sunday afternoon is the favorite time. This hour seems to invite leisure and social "talking of this and that."

One does not associate the early hours of the afternoon with the calls that gentlemen make, and I advise you to limit your calling hours to the tea-hour.

While it is not exactly necessary for a gentleman to telephone before he calls, it is always better for him to do so, in these busy days. People live in a very different way from the way in which they used to live. They live more casually, in smaller spaces, with, on the whole, far less service—and all of these items mean that we should take especial pains to make our calls convenient. Hostesses are grateful to the man who telephones to ask if he may come to call—especially on a week day.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Passing the Paprika

MOST men, nowadays, take merely a casual interest in a kiss, a sporting interest in love, and an academic interest in marriage.

The climax of the old-fashioned love-affair was the point at which the hero "folded the girl in his arms, at LAST"! But, now, he does it, at FIRST—and all the rest is anti-climax.

HELEN ROWLAND

A man may be wise in his generation and a fountain of knowledge in his profession or his business office; but, somehow, he never seems more than 16 years old to his wife.

It is not the mating instinct so much as the gambling instinct, which lures so many modern women to keep right on marrying win or lose!

* * *

It doesn't take much to make a woman proud of her husband. She can even boast with a glow of satisfaction of his marvelous ability to digest lobster salad, ice cream and mince pie.

Absence is no test of love—because it isn't anybody's absence you will have to endure after marriage; it's his or her eternal PRESENCE.

When a man says, "I'll TRY to see you," he unconsciously admits, dear heart, that it is going to be rather a "trial."

Grass-Widow: The "angel" to whom a man once paid court—and the "devil" to whom he now pays alimony.

* * *

The average woman doesn't think that she has had her share of this life's thrills, unless she has been "just saved" from temptation, at least a couple of times.

Some people treat their love as carelessly and roughly as though it had nine lives.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A CHICK "DRESSMAKERS" FROCK.

Simplicity and style mark this attractive model. The godets lend pleasing fullness to the skirt, and shoulder tucks trim the front of the bloused waist. The round collar is held at the center by sporty tie ends. The sleeve is a fitted model. The new tweeds and printed velvets are recommended for this pleasing style. Canton creps or satin crepe is also suggested.

The pattern is cut in six sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. To make the dress for a 38-inch size will require 4⅛ yards of 39-inch material. For collar, tie and belt of contrasting material ⅝ yard 39 inches wide is required cut crosswise. The width of the dress, at the lower edge with godet fullness extended is 2¼ yards.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, November 30

ANOTHER day of surprises and possibly sensational or unusual conditions or occurrences is predicted from the dominant plea of Uranus. This is the planet of the unconventional and radical, but today carries benevolent aspects.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of unusual and unplanned activities with probable sudden changes, but all presages progress and good fortune. New persons and contacts are probable.

A child born on this day may be unusually clever and gifted with qualities making for conspicuous success.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

The Problem of Baby's Food—and Health.

THAT baby is fortunate, indeed, who can be fed by its own mother for the first 9 or 10 months. In Japan and elsewhere breast-feeding continues for two or three or even four years. It is well this is so, because the lack of high grade cow's milk there would create a great social problem if this were not the practice.

DR COPELAND

North America's mothers are glad to make all the sacrifices needed to give their babies the advantage of breast-feeding. There is no douot it is an advantage—a tremendous advantage—particularly during the summer months.

There are always dangers of germ or bacterial growth in the milk we buy. Unless it is properly kept it will speedily spoil. Low temperature is essential to its safety.

There is no worry in this matter if the mother is able to nurse her baby. Her milk will be pure and rich and sweet.

Unfortunately, mother's health may not permit her to do what she is eager to do. No matter how well she may look, too, there may be an insufficient supply of milk.

Dr. Holt, in his book on infant-feeding, says this: "Statistics show that the mortality of bottle-fed infants during the first year is fully three times as great as those who are breast-fed."

Perhaps there are other factors involved in these statistics, but yet it must be conceded that it is a marked disadvantage to the baby not to have mother's milk. But if it cannot be had, painstaking attention to the care and preparation of the milk will go far toward averting danger.

Sometimes the baby can be fed partly from the breast and the balance made up for by the use of the bottle. The point about this discussion is that I am anxious to point out the importance of giving all the natural milk possible.

The progress of the child is the best test of the efficiency of its feedings. If it increases in length and weight, has clear skin and bright eyes, it is pretty certain that all is well.

The scales have an important part to play in the management of the infant. They show that the food is nourishing the child, or that it is not.

Weighing immediately before and right after feeding will show how much breast milk is actually consumed. In this way the fact that the supply is scanty will be quickly discovered. What makes a full meal depends on the age of the infant, from three ounces at four weeks old to six ounces at five or six months.

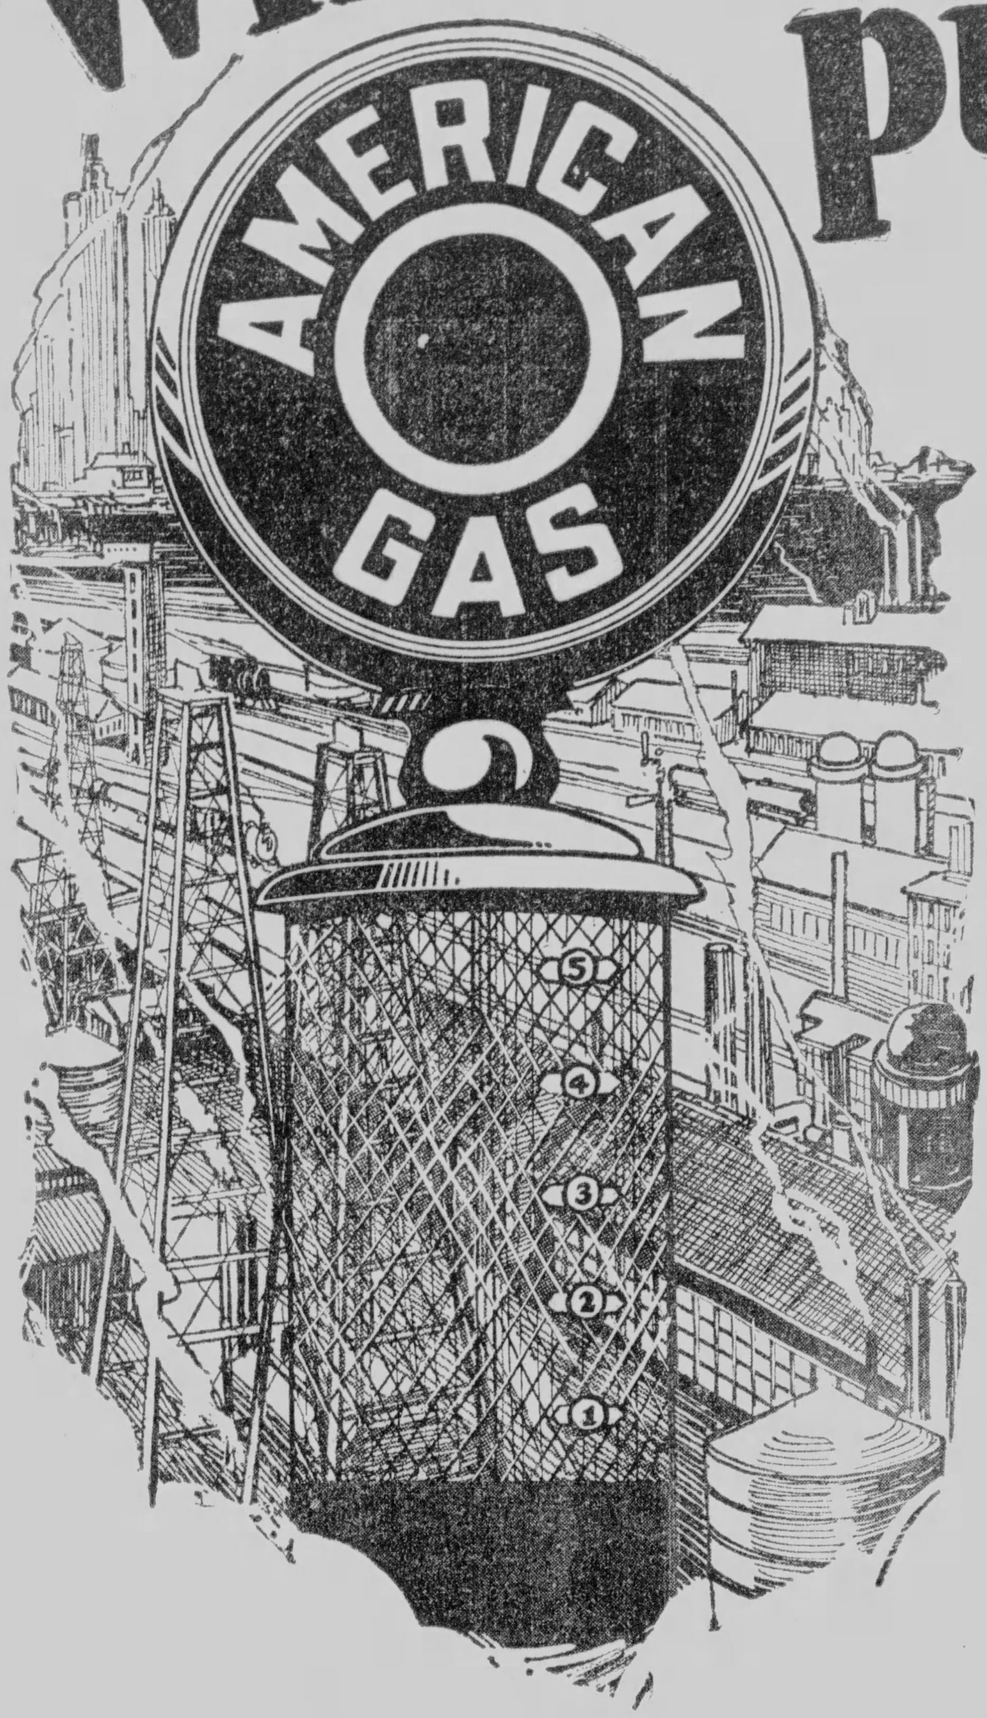
What's back of the pump?



THE uniform high quality of ORANGE AMERICAN GAS is due in large measure to the size and strength of the The American Oil Company and the vast organization which stands behind every pump.

The American Oil Company, with its affiliations, comprises one of the largest oil units in the entire world. This unit not only has its own tremendous production of high quality crude oils but also supervises and controls every step in the manufacture and sale of ORANGE AMERICAN GAS.

From the wells, the crude oils are transported in pipe lines to large and modern refineries all under a single control. The distribution from the refineries to ocean terminals, bulk distributing plants and filling stations is conducted in our own tankers, tank-cars and trucks. Every inch of the way from the well to the pump, ORANGE AMERICAN GAS is under the constant care of men connected with this organization.

That's an important reason why the superior quality of ORANGE AMERICAN GAS never varies. That is why this vast organization with unlimited production, laboratory and manufacturing facilities, has been able to turn out the best gasoline regular gas prices could buy. And that is why you, too, should get acquainted with the product itself, ORANGE AMERICAN GAS.

Forbes

Where Will U. S. Stand Fifteen Years Hence

By B. C. FORBES

WHILE the panic was raging at its fiercest in Wall street, one of the best-known bankers in the country said: "I am satisfied to get through one moment at a time. I am not worrying about tomorrow or the next day. Sufficient for the moment is the trouble thereof."

IF America had solid grounds for feeling optimistic six weeks ago it has equally solid grounds for feeling optimistic today. If the prospects confronting the majority of American stocks then were favorable, they are equally favorable today—distinctly more so when the drastic fall in their cost is taken into account.

Those who were willing to borrow money at very high rates to buy stocks at very high prices surely should be far more willing to borrow money at very low rates to buy stocks at very low prices.

APART from stock quotations and money rates, both of which have become enormously more favorable, the chief change which has taken place is a change in psychology, in the mental attitude of many people. Of course, perhaps 3 to 5 per cent of the population have lost money in stocks, and part of the purchasing power of this comparatively small proportion of our population has been reduced.

But our great productive powers remain unimpaired. Our vast natural resources remain unimpaired. The efficiency of our unique transportation system remains unimpaired. The ability and productivity of our unmatched body of workers remain unimpaired. Our monetary and credit supplies have not merely remained unimpaired, but have tremendously increased. The ingenuity, energy and enterprise of our industrial, financial and business leaders are not only unimpaired, but today stand at a new high water mark. Relations between the government and industry have become gratifyingly closer—and even Congress is likely to act somewhat more circumspectly.

HOW far will the United States have advanced five years from now, 10 years from now, 15 years from now?

We can best judge the future by taking adequately into reckoning what has happened in the past.

The old-established investment banking house of Hornblower & Weeks has prepared an illuminating table from which the following figures are taken. "All the weaknesses in the correct business and financial situation," it points out, "are of temporary character, and all the permanent factors are sound and warrant continued faith in the current and prospective value of securities, representing the ownership of well-managed American railroad, utility and industrial corporations. As a background, showing the only possible trend of general business in this country over any appreciable period of time, we submit the following survey of recent American business history:

PLACE your own interpretation upon these figures. My interpretation is that those of us who have carefully selected common stocks of well-managed corporations at panic prices stand an excellent chance of finding ourselves richer rather than poorer five, 10, 15 years from now.

Exchanges Resume Regular Hours Next Week

Stock exchanges throughout the country are closed today for a special holiday. They will resume operations on the regular trading schedule next week for the first time since the terrific decline in stocks began on October 24. The markets will be open for the usual hours, 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., each day except Saturday when the regular two-hour schedule will be in effect.

This week the exchanges were open for the full five-hour sessions on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, but closed for the Thanksgiving holiday yesterday and are also closed today and tomorrow.

FOR MENCKEN'S AMERICANA

AMONG other reasons why prohibition is a laugh in these United States is this report of a W. C. T. U. meeting, from the Providence (R. I.) Journal: "Programs were distributed as prepared by Mrs. Richardson, with the letters W. C. T. U. around the borders and a design representing a white ribbon at the top. In appreciation of her efforts in preparing the program, Mrs. Richardson was given the 'white ribbon salute.' All the members rose and faced Mrs. Richardson, and extending their right hands toward her three times called: 'White ribbon, white ribbon, white ribbon. Hurrah, hurrah, hurrah! Mrs. Richardson! Mrs. Richardson! Mrs. Richardson!'"

IN a local synagogue the rabbi eloquently discussed Nature. He passionately cried: "And let me tell you good people this. The world will come to an end in 150,000 years!"

"Wot did you sad?" interrupted an interest Jewish gentleman, who stood up.

"I said," replied the rabbi, "that the world would come to an end in 150,000 years."

"Oh, I beg your poddon," apologized the greatly relieved disturber, "I tuit you sad fifteh tousand."

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES

DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate" by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d" to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

MICHIGAN BEAUTY ARRIVES! CAPITAL STIRRED!

Proud Congressman Meets Ruth Willmore With Rig

"Palaces of Sin" Thus Far: Reformer Maple cites the case of innocent Ruth Willmore, Michigan beauty, who left her widowed mother, and the prospects of happy marriage, to enter the whirlpool of Washington society. Her uncle, newly elected Congressman, has induced Ruth to join him, and her auntie.

The Congressman went to Washington alone, rented a room in a fashionable resort, and imparted to many the fact that he had the prettiest niece on earth. Consequently everyone in the boarding house was anxious to see her. The "old" man had learned that nothing "cuts so much ice" as money, so he circulated a report that Ruth would some day be worth millions.

"Well," said Uncle Theadore to all who would listen on the day Ruth was to arrive with her aunt and seven trunks, "I expect to 'trot in' a beauty! I have engaged a 'turn out' to meet them at the train. See you at supper. Better 'fix up.'"

Naturally the dining room was jammed with Society to behold the Michigan beauty. The happy moment arrived, and the Congressman marched through the curtains with Ruth on one arm and his wife on the other. There was a—

LADY

An Hitherto Unpublished Poem by Abelardo Doctoledro, Filipino Bard and Elevator Boy

Some are nice and beautiful,
But still kranky and ungreetful;
While many are loaded with modesty,
It's just too bad for them to drink whisky.

Successive dates and whoppee are too much.
The modern education don't have such.
For they are the factor of degradation,
The outcome of illusion and lamentation.

Hence today and tomorrow,
Could be manifested with happiness and sorrow,
The coveted name Lady,
Couldn't be adequated by false vanity.

President Crushes Plan To Get Us Into League

From an American standpoint, President Hoover's Armistice Day speech was perhaps the most important state paper of the last 10 years.

From the European standpoint, it was thoroughly unsatisfactory, particularly the proposal to use food ships in wartime.

For one thing, "the project is bound to be condemned by the diplomats as unspeakably humane," as one cynical Englishman remarked.

President Hoover's chief release, however, is that he knocked into a cocked hat the scheme to get us into the League of Nations via the Kellogg pact.

We refused to join the League itself because we recognized it as an association of the war victors intent on keeping the loot and ENFORCING their will upon the world in the future.

Our absence from the League weakens the chief one of its "sanctions," a trick word meaning "ways to make war."

The League could not do without our help in its "economic boycott" (starvation) of those on whom it declared war. With the United States OUT, and in possession of a powerful Navy, we were likely to enforce our right to trade with a nation which had offended the League but not us.

Then came the Kellogg pact, "outlawing war," an agreement which our pacifists got Secretary of State Kellogg to offer Europe.

Europe signed it gleefully. At last they had Uncle Sam's name on a document signed by all League members and having to do with war. They set out to see what they could make of it.

Listen to Gen. Jan Smuts telling Oxford University students, early this month, that in signing the Kellogg pact, the United States had lost its freedom of action. Suppose the League now declares some nation at war to be the aggressor, he said. Then:

"Will the United States claim her commercial rights as a neutral in such a case and insist upon the right to supply an aggressor and nullify the boycott?

"There might have been, before, a claim of abstract right which, however, would never have been exercised in a real emergency. NOW, AFTER THE KELLOGG PACT EVEN THE FORM OF ABSTRACT RIGHT HAS VIRTUALLY DISAPPEARED."

A few days later Gen. Smuts spoke on the same subject at a dinner of the League of Nations Union in London:

"Follow up the peace pact. Do not leave its general declaration in the air, so to say, but carry it to its reasonable conclusion. It offers a bridge between divergent views of peace methods on both sides of the Atlantic. THIS UNIQUE OPPORTUNITY SHOULD, THEREFORE, BE EXPLOITED TO THE FULL."

It is easy to see that they were counting us IN on the League of Nations.

It is also easy to understand their consternation when President Hoover on Armistice Day said:

"I would place all vessels laden solely with food supplies on the same footing as hospital ships. The time has come when we should remove the starvation of women and children from the weapons of warfare."

When the President of the United States, backed by public sentiment, says "I WOULD place" food ships on the same footing as hospital ships, he means "I WILL place." That is, the government of the United States announces that our agricultural exports are not to be banned by the League of Nations in any war in which we are not engaged.

President Hoover serves notice that the Kellogg pact has NOT put us into the League of Nations system, and if the President now would announce us definitely out of the League's World Court also, the country would be entitled to an extra Thanksgiving holiday.

But Look at the Patient, Doc!

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Another Trunk Mystery

A THING of beauty and a joy forever is a dry Congressman with a wet suitcase.

"Bugs" Baer

It seems that this case was a scientific experiment with oversize luggage. The people's choice wanted to test his trunk in an effort to get 20 miles to the gallon.

Evaporation in transit is an important item in this restricted dynasty.

And the constant dripping of contraband elixir will wear away the toughest amendments.

A good Washington drink now seems to be a traveling bag with a doctor's kit for a chaser.

After having your trunk vulcanized and having thus forestalled an act of providence or the enemy, you discover that your valet has carelessly packed your socks and collars with your formal headache powders.

Your baggage is fermenting sweetly on the station platform and you turn to an abstract stranger and boast:

"Have you got a bungstarter? I want to open my trunk."

He is an internal revenue agent with his badge modestly pinned to his spare tire. The reason why he has been following your trunk is because he saw a rainbow over it.

There is some guaranteed unbreakable luggage but no company will insure your trunk against gurgling.

The finest hootch is that which has been aged in the leather and grown a whisky bouquet on a branch line. But when you make a handbag out of an alligator be careful of its teeth.

It is an ungrateful trunk that bites the hand that packs it. So don't be surprised when the station agent asks:

"Do you want this trunk checked or analyzed?"

Liquor and the dinosaur are both extinct. But both seem to have left their staggering footprints in the soapstone strata. And even though they nip a Congressional trunk once in a while, it's all right if they don't raid the home factory.

Gold and booze are where you find them. And the mother lode cannot compare with the one that father carried.

The worst that can happen to our Congressman is to be fined for carrying high explosives on a public vehicle.

Prohibition seems to have succeeded in making a group picture out of the face in the barroom floor. A man's house is his castle and so is his two-carload garage.

This trunk episode is a fashionable hint that they are making the kegs oblong instead of round.

NOTHING STAYS PUT

By Herbert Kaufman

B. F. Yoakum, who taught twenty-five cent Texas acreage to yield twenty-five dollar annual dividends, is dead.

Like Harriman, he saw the blood of commerce and the waters of fecundity pulse through the steel veins with which he spread seemingly arid wastes.

The St. Louis and Brownsville section, now a region of gardens, plantations and prospering towns, owes its productivity to his conviction that the lower Rio Grande could be made a second Imperial Valley.

The Frisco system is his monument. And a niche in the hall of empire builders his allotted destiny.

Well done, thou good and faithful servant.

THE League of Nations will earn the right to a similar encomium, if its offices, abetted by the efforts of Downing street and our own State Department, manage to effect a truce between China and the Soviets.

Nanking now puts more faith in international justice than a population of four hundred millions and local military genius.

The Old Dowager would rather have put a torch to the Empire than appeal for aid to the "foreign devils."

But times have since changed for the East and West alike. There are no further Great Walls to sequestrate races from progress.

WIRELESS, motion pictures and aviation are fast wiping out the curses of Babel, and isolation.

Distance or fastnesses can't much longer divide ignorance from knowledge, savagery from civilization, or resources from access.

Ideas, ideals and fundamentals are all in a state of flux. The twentieth century will go down in history as the most kaleidoscopic era in human experience.

Nothing stays put, including law and logic.

A MASSACHUSETTS court, throwing precedent to the winds, decides that moral characteristics are incapable of fixation at the ages of seven and eight, and refuses to brand two boys, who killed a three-year-old child, as criminals.

Common sense nationally applauds the verdict.

An Omaha judge, dissenting from prevalent rulings, also dares to defy associate opinion, and re-declares that a man's home is the same castle it was before the Volstead Act assumed prerogatives of search and seizure, which no previous statute ever arrogated.

ONLY the Supreme Court can now re-establish prohibition's claim to entry and arrest without process of warrant.

The sooner the country learns whether the Eighteenth Amendment can or can't suspend the Magna Charta and the Constitution of the United States, to perpetuate the slip between cup and lip, the better for all concerned.

Meanwhile, the Supreme Court has settled a long-mooted legal point by authorizing deserted wives to draw upon their husbands' bank balances.

FRANCE and Italy, where males still exercise full control over family wealth, and aren't responsible for charge accounts, if they have not specifically agreed that the woman may purchase on credit, will now have another bone to pick with sex equality.

THE week-end suspension of holiday trading, and Thanksgiving's interruption of prosperity conferences, afford the chance to ponder over "ships and shoes and sealing wax" again.

One-stringed harps, however adeptly played, finally grow monotonous.

Which reflection suggests that the country might recover its optimism a little more quickly if the Halleliah chorus would occasionally abandon the center stage.

Man cannot live by ballyhoos alone.

Weep, You Racketeers!

$5,000,000 Gold, Unprotected.

The Bank of England sent $5,000,000 worth of gold in bars to Paris by airplane, without any special guard.

That is enough to bring tears to the eyes of our best racketeer citizens.

In this virtuous country such a shipment of gold, $5,000,000, in beautiful yellow bars, would have called for a small regiment of armed guards.

Nobody here would DREAM of turning $5,000,000 loose in the air, unprotected.

The news would spread, our energetic racketeers would "hop" a swift flying machine and that gold would not reach its normal destination.

To move gold in the American way you get a wagon made of riveted steel, with little slots for pistol fire from within, the windows protected with bullet proof glass.

You have a driver and his companion, armed to the teeth. And you have two or three well armed men inside the bullet proof vehicle. Even then you lose the money sometimes, when the driver goes away with the wagon.

It's all very confusing, because prohibition was supposed to "diminish crime."

We HAVE prohibition. And we have crime, racketeering, wholesale robbery and murder on a scale undreamed of before. How do you explain it?

A Word of Comfort

Troubles of an Author Who Tells How to Raise Children.

Let us offer solace to perplexed and harried parents.

A confidential and hilarious report, coming through roundabout channels, tells us that one of the outstanding authorities on how to raise children is having considerable trouble with his own offspring. The theories which he has so convincingly stated in his eagerly read books are apparently helpful to everyone but the author.

Of course it would hardly be fair to mention his name. The unhappy man doubtless needs all his royalties to purchase the books of other authorities who tell how to raise children.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

LUCILLE prides herself on being different.

All through college she cultivated "radical ideas" and lived her own life. She didn't care to mix with the other young people. The popular brawl bored her to tears. She declared she "wanted to be alone and think."

Being different was hot stuff for Lucille, in college. People used to nudge each other on the campus and say: "There goes Lucille Cameron . . . that stunning dark girl . . . she's awfully unusual . . . so different!" Which, naturally, made a big hit with Lucille. But now that she's home, all that has changed. Mr. and Mrs. Cameron are conservative and sociable people. They expect their daughter to step around and "act like other girls." And they are indignant and disgusted when she insists on staying by herself.

Whereupon, Lucille furiously denounces society and writes to us . . . "IS IT SUCH A CRIME TO BE DIFFERENT? HASN'T EACH PERSON A RIGHT TO LIVE ACCORDING TO THE LAW OF HIS OWN BEING . . . . WITHIN DECENT LIMITS, OF COURSE?"

He has, my dear. But he must expect to pay for the privilege.

YOU CAN'T CHAIN THE FREEDOM OF THE MAVERICK AND STILL ENJOY THE CHUMMINESS OF THE CORRAL.

Most human beings are gregarious . . . like to herd together like cattle or run in packs like wolves. There's a reason for that. Safety lay in numbers, in the unprotected days. So we've learned to cling together for our common profit and common pleasure. Most of us are lost without the rest of the herd. We do not know what to do with ourselves . . . we have no resources of our own. Naturally, we look with suspicion and resentment on the person who walks by his lone. Such a person violates the traditional herd law and bruises our self-esteem. We feel he disdains our little programs and thinks that he is better than we are. We're right . . . he usually does.

That's why people criticize radicals. And they must accept it like good sports . . . OR ELSE STOP BEING DIFFERENT.

IS IT WORTH WHILE? DOES BEING DIFFERENT PAY?

That depends. Some "being different" isn't worth shucks. It's merely pesky eccentricity and is usually a play for publicity. But there is another sort of "being different" which is worth almost anything one may have to pay for it.

The Great Ones in history were always different. They did not obey mass law, nor seek mass pleasure nor commendation. BUT THEY ALWAYS HAD TO PAY THE PRICE OF LONELINESS, MISUNDERSTANDING CRITICISM, AND OFTEN PERSECUTION.

Each one of us must decide, for himself, whether Being Different pays . . . WHETHER HE OR SHE HAS ANYTHING THAT'S WORTH BEING DIFFERENT ABOUT.

Do we seek solitude in order to think great thoughts . . . in order to grow stronger, wiser, more serene? Or do we seek it because we are secretly afraid of people and because the thought of possible social failure bruises our self-esteem?

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

ONE can proceed similarly with the sense of touch and get a different distribution; and finally the pain-sense is not restricted to areas, but is present everywhere, so here again the sense organs must be distinct.

It will probably appear to the reader that the list of sensations just given is too short. We have spoken, for example, of a single pain-sense but there are several different qualities of pain. As a matter of fact, the rich variety of feelings that we get from our skin is due to the fact that a stimulus often affects more than one kind of sense-organ.

H. G. Wells

Our muscles, tendons and joints are richly provided with sense-organs, chiefly sensitive to pressure, which supply the central nervous system with information about the position and movements of the limbs. These sense-organs also play an important part in feeling the shapes and textures of objects.

In structure the organs responsible for sensation in the skin and muscles are comparatively simple.

We may, however, take note of a kind of sense-organ that is even more elementary in design than the touch-organs in the hair follicles. Everywhere in the skin there is a network made by the branching ends of nerve-fibers, running among the cells without any evident order and without any specialized accessory structures.

When these fibers are stimulated they give rise to sensations of pain. The pain sense is of more importance to the organism than any other of the skin sensations, for while a message about the temperature of the air or about the hardness and shape of a neighboring object may or may not be interesting to the central nervous system, a stab of pain always means immediate danger. Pain is an alarm signal, and its biological importance is reflected in the anatomical fact that whereas warmth and cold and touch are senses confined to particular patches of skin, the pain network is unrestricted and pervades the whole surface of the body.

INTERNAL SENSATION

While we are on the subject of these scattered and rather mysterious sense organs we may note the feelings that arise from time to time in our thoracic and abdominal viscera. Normally we are unaware of these independently working parts. There is a close correspondence between the parts of the body over which the sway of the central nervous system extends and the parts from which it receives precise information.

The mouth, for example, is controlled by the central government chewing and swallowing are the results of impulses from the brain but the oesophagus is an independent structure driving mouthfuls down to the stomach by means of its automatic movements. Corresponding with this we find that the mouth is very sensitive to the temperature, texture and chemical composition of our food, but that as soon as a mouthful is swallowed it ceases to stimulate sense organs; it is handed over to the autonomous factories and passes at the same time out of our control and out of our ken.

Generally speaking, whenever an abdominal organ sends a vivid sensory message to the brain it means that something is seriously wrong and that the government is expected to do something about it.

The whole subject of sensation in the viscera is still obscure. We know very little of the elements into which visceral sensations can be analyzed or of the sense organs that are responsible for them. It is clear that the arrangements are very different from those in the skin, and the difference seems to depend on the relative independence of the viscera to which we have just alluded.

There is, however, a possibility that the sense-impulses received from the viscera include messages other than these cries of distress. We saw that motor impulses to the voluntary muscles are not confined to the moments when contraction is desired; they include continual encouragements, an unceasing influence that keeps the muscle fit and ready.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Thoughts while strolling: Why do heavy literary journals have such dingy offices? Fay King, the caricaturist, Cafeteria sign: "A trayful for a trifle." Dr. Jerome Wagner, a physician to stage folk, and his beautiful actress bride, Norma Terriss.

Lillian Gish's mouse-like manner. Dave Bernie—Ben's brother. And also an orchestra leader. Nothing but double-breasted coats this fall. Ben Hampton, now a scientific diaryman. The next autoist who makes me jump out of my shoes with a quick toot—well, he better not.

Ned Wayburn's long strides—"High Hips" chorus girls call him. Whatever became of Dorothy Knapp? A policeman in an official car ignores traffic lights. A swell lesson in law and order. Those lads with oiled hair who jog through town in running pants.

Brock Pemberton, an Emporia (Kan.) boy, who made good in the city. Never see a window demonstrator any more. Willie Pogany, the artist. A tethered goat in a movie lobby to advertise a travel film. Frozen custard stands like those at Coney Island. Queenie Smith.

That sad, musty smell from subway gratings. And kids who fish through them for dropped coins. Chain store clockers. Child's now have oyster bars. Big Bill Edwards tries to tie his shoe—and hurries on. The familiar old characters are missing from in front of the Hotel Astor.

Dinty Moore's new restaurant front. A haughty doorman holds a fluffy puppy while a lady goes into the movies. Chinese dinner places packed. Most of them are owned by Hibernians. And they say the Harlem cabs are owned by Jews. The bigger the film banner, the bigger the flop—sometimes.

Clouds gather. Shopkeepers step out to curbs and scan the skies. News vendors cover wares. Crossing cops disappear for mackintoshes. Everybody quickens their step. Skyscrapers light up. Rain patters down. The asphalt glistens. No city is so beautiful in a shower.

Hotels are warning travelers not to place their shoes outside the door at night for shines. "Give shoes directly to the floor valet," room cards warn. Since drinking has been transferred from public bars to hotel rooms, the wind up of a night of revelry was for merrymakers to gather up the shoes in the hall on the way out and toss them gaily from taxi windows along the street. Such fun.

New hotels are also placing banquet rooms on the first or mezzanine floors or on the top floor. Noise making and rowdiness that distrubed guests brought about this stricture. There is no fool like a tipsy banqueteer in a paper hat.

Night elevator operators in hotels are among the prohibition profiteers. Merry gentlemen out for a hefty night wobble back to inns touched with an open pursed generosity. What in sober moments would be a 25 cent tip often becomes a $5 bill.

But the big cleanup among hotel elevator men is at Christmas time. Many receive gratuities tripling yearly salaries. In some of those Park avenue apartment houses, known only by numbers, the Yuletide for the faithful lift men has brought sums of $5,000.

A glossily tailored gentleman informed me today that he was "a director of public relations." And as a one-time press agent—and a fair to middling one, too—I could have walked under a nearby desk wearing a high hat. I felt that small.

From Portland, Maine: "I see you New Yorkers are still paying $1.50 for a pint of table water we bottle up here for three cents. It is enough to make a strong man break down and cry. J. H. Hue."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

ONE thing after another blocks attainment and acco ent for you. No matter how hard you strive you car . You seem to have reached your limit.

A year ago you thought by now you would be nearer and it is still in the distance. One year ago you were full and enthusiasm and plans. One after another your hopes ca naught—your plans blasted. Disheartened, you do not take blame for your failures, however. No, you feel bad luck came an you cannot avoid it now or in the past.

Ten to one this is not true.

Your hopefulness was not backed by watchfulness. Your enthusiasm wearied you so that you worked less instead of more. You did not take details into consideration and provide for disappointment in different departments before it came.

Aren't you quitting because it's your easiest course?

You don't want to put forth the necessary effort to win. Thoughtful plans, a keen eye for opportunities, work in season and out of season, and you win.
